Steelworkers Await Signal to Return

Agreement Announced By President Truman

(More Steel Strike News on Pages 12 and 16)

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—President Truman today dramatically signalled the end of the 53-day steel strike.

Flanked by CIO President Philip Murray and President Benjamin Fairless of U. S. Steel, Truman announced that agreement was reached after day-long talks at the White House. He had summoned the top union and industrial leaders to meet with him in a supreme effort to end the walkout that had idled nearly two million Americans and cut deep into defense production.

Boy Fractures Skull in Fall From Hay Loft

A 6-year-old Douglass township boy was injured seriously early last night when he slipped while playing in a hay loft and plunged to a concrete floor.

Helmuth Theil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Theil, tenants on the Walter Grow farm, Route 422 west of Stowe, was reported in "satisfactory" condition by a Pottstown hospital spokesman late last night.

The boy was found in a semi-conscious condition by his brother, Reinhold, on the concrete floor of the dairy barn a few minutes past 6 o'clock. He fell 10 feet from the second floor through a hay funnel onto the first floor of the big yellow dairy barn.

He suffered a fractured skull and was bleeding from the left ear when the Good Will ambulance, manned by Milford "Bud" Fawcett and Edward Seiders, took him to the hospital.

GEORGE K. BOOS, who lives at the Grow farm, carried the injured boy from the barn to the house and Mrs. Boos called the ambulance.

Helmuth is a member of a Rumanian DP family who moved to the Grow farm this past December. The family spent several years in a German concentration camp and was sponsored in this country by Grow.

The Rev. Dr. Luther A. Krouse, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran church, summoned the father from the fields at 7 o'clock after he received a call from Mrs. Boos.

Mrs. Thiel, who gave birth to a baby two weeks ago, was unable to contact her husband. The Thiels are members of Emmanuel church. Helmuth was playing with three other children when the accident occurred. He was unconscious upon arrival at the hospital. Later when he was admitted to the children's ward he regained consciousness.

Cool Air Finally Comes to Town

A tide of cool air swept away Pottstown's 12-day heat wave yesterday, providing comfortable working and sleeping weather for residents who had sweated out the extended streak of 90 degree temperatures.

The mercury tumbled to 83 degrees for the first time since July 11, the day before the heat wave began.

Relief came during the early morning hours yesterday from a cool air mass which had moved down from the Canadian Rockies, and traveled eastward across the nation. Northwest winds brought the cool.

THE WEATHER

For Eastern Pennsylvania: Sunny and pleasant today with a high from 80 to 85 degrees. Tomorrow partly cloudy and warmer with the possibility of scattered thunder-showers in the afternoon.

Pottstown Portraits

A Quick Look at Your Neighbor

By MARTIN SALTICHER

WHEN GEORGE W. (POP) RUSSELL, 336 OAK STREET, joined the Schulz Baking company on the first day of its operation on June 17, 1922, he didn't think he'd stay more than three days.

A man with a fear of horses, Russell didn't look forward to the job of making deliveries with the company wagon. But founder John L. Schulz kept asking him to stay.

George W. (Pop) Russell

"And here I am starting my 31st year with the company," says "Pop."

The oldest employee of the firm, Russell has served as salesman, foreman, sales manager, director, and was appointed to his present position of treasurer in 1949.

A native of Pottstown, he was born on April 4, 1878. Because the father of the family of eight was in poor health, Russell left school when he was 13 years old to take a job at the Ellis and Lessig nail factory, where he tended two self-feeders.

"Pop" stayed there for seven years, until business dropped and he was laid off. For the next two years he worked during the Summers as a delivery-man for the Pottstown Cold Storage company, and during the Winters at the old McClintic-Marshall Construction company. It was while he was delivering ice that he became wary of horses, and let his assistant take care of them.

In 1922, John L. Schulz organized the baking company which bears his name, starting operations in a small frame house at 509 Walnut street. Mrs. Schulz baked the bread, and her husband and Russell, the first employee, sold it from door to door in baskets.

When Russell was given a horse and wagon to use on the one route the bakery boasted at that time, he began to think about quitting. His first horse had a habit of walking ahead several blocks while Russell was in a house delivering bread, and that made him dislike the animals even more.

But he was determined to overcome his fear and dislike, and within a few months the route began to grow until it was necessary to hire more salesmen.

Today the bakery, instead of an output of 144 loaves daily, has a sale total of 280,000 loaves, and instead of horses, the company operates a fleet of 75 motor vehicles.

When the first motor vehicle was purchased by the company in 1929, Russell had become accustomed to horses and didn't like the new invention. "It was a lot of trouble just to get 'em started," he recalls. "My horses were trained to start moving as soon as they saw me coming."

Horses lost out in delivery usage, however, because of the distance covered each day on the country routes. By 1929, they were all retired to a farm near Yellow House.

Russell has become so devoted to the bakery business that he scorns vacations. He took one in 1948, the first since 1928. "I have learned to love my work after being here so long," he says. "Nothing else matters."

He married Agnes Geisler in 1899, after meeting her while delivering ice, and the couple has raised four sons, all prominent executives now. Raymond and Paul are superintendents at the Bethlehem Steel company. Lewis is vice president of the Pillsbury Mills, in Minneapolis; and Donald is personnel manager of the Donut Machine company, Catonsville, Md.

Russell is a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, Pottstown Lodge 369, the Eagles Home association; Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie 626, and the Chamber of Commerce.

Needless to say, "Pop's" own favorite food is bread. "It has more calories than anything else you could eat," he declares. "And don't let anyone tell you it's fattening. It gives you lots of energy."

At the age of 74, it still supplies the bakerman with lots of pep and vitality.

BENJAMIN F. SMITH, 63 KING STREET, will observe his 50th year as a private messenger Monday.

He is the last of a group of men who made a business out of carrying small articles for borough merchants from Philadelphia to Pottstown using the railroad for transportation.

"I like meeting people and traveling," says 78-year-old Smith, explaining his continued pursuit of the messenger business. "Of course," he adds lightly, "if someone gives me $5000 a year, I'll retire."

Smith spent most of his early years in hotels owned and managed by his father. Born on November 4, 1874, in the Limerick Square Hotel, he lived there until he was eight years old and his family moved to Pottstown.

In 1883, his father took over the Star hotel on the Ridge road, near Phoenixville, and Smith stayed there until he was 19, helping out with the business and an adjoining farm.

A man with a strong sense of humor, Smith says, "I graduated from school when I was 14 after a fight with my teacher."

He joined the Royersford Machine company in 1893 in order to learn the plumbing trade. "After a year and a half things got dull," says Smith, "so I left to work for a plumber in Pottstown."

He was laid off after several months because of a business depression, and was idle a year before going to work at a country store on the Ridge road.

After three years there, he headed for Philadelphia, where he became an attendant in the mental section of the Pennsylvania Hospital. "I felt like trying everything," Smith explains. "The name of my section made you think—it was known as receiving sick and suicides."

On July 28, 1912, after returning to Pottstown, Smith bought a ticket on the Reading railroad and went into business as a messenger. He canvassed jewelers, tailors, dentists, drug stores, hardware shops, and other borough businessmen who had to send items to Philadelphia for repairs, or ordered supplies from the big city.

On a normal day, Smith would visit his clients, pick up their packages, and string them over his shoulders and load up his arms. If business was good, he would deposit one load at the railroad station under the watchful eye of a gatekeeper, and hurry back for more packages. Somehow, Smith would be able to stack all the deliveries under his seat or in the rack above. On arriving in Philadelphia, he would walk around the downtown section unloading the goods, and picking up return supplies.

Smith says he never was robbed of goods, "though I did have my pockets picked a few times." A constant train-rider, he was involved in two crashes, but escaped unhurt.

As methods of transportation improved and business methods changed, the messenger service declined, until Smith is the only survivor, and his present service is limited to jewelers. He only makes trips on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Married to the former Anna M. Pfeiffer, Smith likes to spend his off-duty hours by sitting in the yard of his home, either reading the papers or playing with his Kerry Blue terrier, Patsy.

His only hobbies, Smith declares, are smoking a pipe and drinking a cold glass of beer.

Delegates Are Slow

Getting Steel Strike News

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago.

July 24 (AP)—Delegates to the Democratic National convention were slow getting the news today that the steel strike had been settled.

A demonstration for Averell, everyone got the idea. A cheer Harriman was going on when the news came over the news tickers on the speaker's platform.

As soon as Chairman Sam Rayburn could get order at the conclusion of the demonstration he passed it on to the delegates.

Rayburn made one error. He said "Nine Workers" when he meant "Steel Workers." But a demonstration for Averell, everyone got the idea. A cheer Harriman was going on when the news came over the news tickers on the speaker's platform.

PITTSBURGH, July 24 (AP)—The Acheson Manufacturing company at nearby Rankin, which jumped the gun in giving wage raises to steelworkers finally was authorized today to pay the increases.

The Wage Stabilization board ruled the firm could pay 300 CIO United Steelworkers under the terms of the new contract which follows closely WSB recommendations for the steel industry.

The WSB made the firm take back all money it paid out in raises last May. The contract calls for a 12½ cent hourly pay boost retroactive to Jan. 1, a 2½ cent raise as of last July 1, a 2½ cent boost next Jan. 1 and fringe benefits.

Mann, Pottstown physician, he was taken to Children's hospital, where he has been under an oxygen tent since his admittance at midnight, Tuesday.

Hospital officials refused to comment on possibilities of an early discharge but said the boy "was resting comfortably."

Hero of one of the most daring exploits of the Korean war is Capt. Joseph D. Cooper, of Sacramento, Calif., pilot of an H-19 helicopter, who literally "stole" a Red MIG from behind enemy lines. A close military secret since March, 1951, the story is as follows: Air Force experts wanted a MIG for study and Capt. Cooper went after it with his crew. He and his crew, covered by 50 fighter planes, came down 100 yards from a disabled MIG. Technicians dismantled it, loaded the parts on the helicopter and flew off.

Man Who Shot Wife Dies of Gun Wounds

PITTSBURGH, July 24 (AP)—A 39-year-old man from nearby Duquesne who shot and killed his estranged wife died today of self-inflicted wounds.

James M. McQuown shot his wife with a .22 caliber target pistol yesterday and then turned the gun on himself. The shooting occurred in a sister-in-law's apartment in nearby Swissvale. His wife had been staying there since their separation six weeks ago.

Police said Mrs. Ruth McQuown, 39, was expected to divorce her husband and the shooting apparently followed an unsuccessful reconciliation attempt. Mrs. McQuown died last night of head, neck and shoulder wounds. Her husband died of a head wound.

Changes Forecast in Models Of Tomorrow's American Car

By JOHN F. SEMROWER
(Central Press Correspondent)

DETROIT, Mich., July 24—Auto models that Americans will be driving the next 10 years are not likely to be radically different from those which crowd the highways during the current tourist season.

However, there definitely will be big changes. Secreted in shops around this motor capital are the experimental models which determine tomorrow's styles. Occasionally, one of them spins out on the streets and gives passersby a thrill like that which swept through the town when Henry Ford's Model A, successor to the classic Model T, appeared.

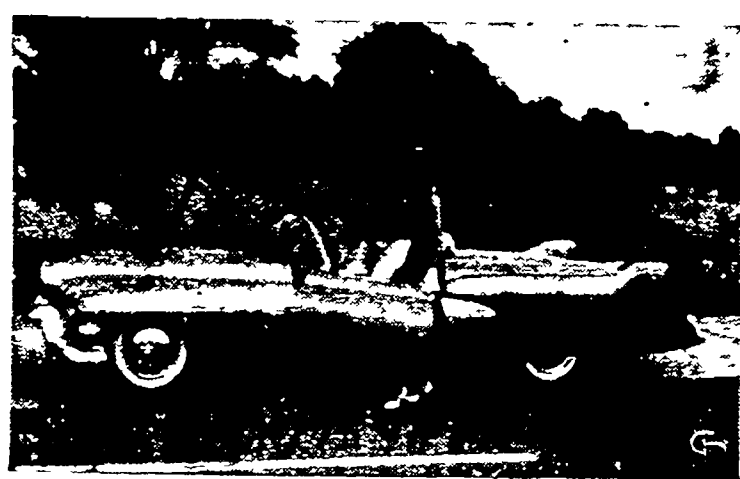

Now it may be General Motors' Le Sabre, the jet-lined sport roadster which may contain many of the earmarks of GM's line for the next decade, or the futuramic cars that Chrysler, Lincoln, Packard, Buick and some of the others have been coveting unveiling now and then.

A glance into the carefully guarded shops of the Weltlauffer Manufacturing company here is a look into tomorrow. This fabulous and little known concern for many years has specialized in design and experimental work for many of the big manufacturers.

SINCE EARLY in the century when the first general auto patents were broken, development of the American auto has been a helter-skelter scramble. Each car maker is an unabashed copycat of the others, yet the great premium is on originality.

Consequently no single automobile can claim to be the typical United States motorcar style. Although the hunt for the $1000 small car goes on fruitlessly, the range of cars is from the smallest—made by Croley, Kaiser, Willys and Nash—to the big powered cars which get speed and more power all the time.

The prospect is that Mr. John Q. Motorist is going to have plenty of opportunity to continue to express his own personality in the car he drives, whether it calls for an accent compactness and economy.

Motor car of tomorrow—This experimental car, called Le Sabre, is designed to test various new ideas. Included in the innovations is an automatic jack operated from the dashboard in case of a flat tire.

or he likes to ensconce himself in American motorcar along the line the jet propelled age with a power mouse throatily responding to his accelerator.

Never has the tug-of-war for design been stronger. The safety conscious argue that the designs give too little attention to that facet of driving considering that more than a million people have died in accidents.

They point out that insurance claims are up 30 percent because of the fancy fenders in body design, elaborate radiator grilles, elimination of running boards and myriad chrome gadgets.

THE ECONOMY MINDED man moans the rise in average price from $775 in 1949 to today's $1555. The comfort seekers complain that headroom has been mercilessly sacrificed in favor of the continual urge to go lower, lower and lower.

A peek at plans for the future assures that the world of selection will continue to be so great that almost every type of motorist will be able to find his own particular kind of car. The paradox of the greatest mass-produced product being that it also is one of the most individual styled.

However, the development of the school oratorical contests in Johns town, Williamsport, and Altoona for three years in a row will be attended Phoenixville High school. In 1950 during his senior year in high school he won the international oratorical contest. The competition was for high school students in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Housing Authority Board of Directors Approves Budget

The budget of the Montgomery Housing authority was inspected and approved by the board of directors of the authority yesterday at their meeting.

Edmund Koser, executive director and secretary of the authority, said that the budget goes into effect for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Also approved yesterday were appropriations for periodic estimates to the plumbing, heating and general contractors.

The board extended the date for advertising bids on North Hills a 50 unit project in Upper Dublin to August 4.

Present at yesterday's meeting in addition to Koser were the Rev. Marshall A. Lee, treasurer; Felix Perry, chairman of the board; and Richard E. Smale and Edmund S. Harrison, board members.

Frank Benrman, vice chairman of the board, was absent.

ELIMINATIONS SET. POTTSTOWN, July 4 (AP)—State wide eliminations in the 14th annual Mrs. America contest will be held here Aug. 15.

BOOM FOR ADLAI COASTING ALONG

Penna. Delegates Caucus To Determine Preference In Race for Nomination

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Pennsylvania, a front runner in the Stevenson boom before the Democratic convention opened, still coasted today as the end of the presidential nomination race drew near.

The 70-vote group finally did caucus this morning, and wound up doing just what they have been doing in the Convention hall and hotel lobbies since Monday—lots of talk and no action.

There was no positive evidence of any change in the Sunday night alignment of personal preferences; 33 votes for Stevenson, 14 for Sen. Estes Kefauver, 7 for President Truman and a scattering few for other candidates. Backers of all three have been claiming gains.

Myers, who also is floor leader for the Stevenson draft, appeared unconcerned about the delayed showdown.

HE SAID he was confident of the result of the nomination contest, guessed that Stevenson would get about 35 votes on the first Pennsylvania tally and more after that, and said firmly that he believes Kefauver will reach his top strength in Pennsylvania on the first ballot.

Myers wouldn't fix that, but noted that he had heard "claims that he has gained four or five" which would put the total Kefauver vote about 29.

As the nominating speeches for candidates droned on, Rep. William J. Green Jr., of Philadelphia scrambled through arrangements for the nominating speech he had said he would make for President Truman "unless I get word from him not to do it."

AT THE two-hour caucus-breakfast in the Morrison hotel, the delegation heard National Committeeman David L. Lawrence urge Stevenson support and forecast his nomination. District Attorney Richardson Dilworth, of Philadelphia, a Kefauver backer, pleaded again that these delegates who pledged in advance to support the popular choice should line up with the Tennessee Senator.

Steel Terms Include 16 Cent Wage Boost Retroactive to Mar. 1

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Authoritative sources said today the terms of the steel strike settlement were these:

1. An average of 16 cents wage boost. Present earnings average under $2 an hour.
2. Six paid holidays and double time for workers who must work on any of the six holidays.
3. An increase in the differentials for the afternoon and night shifts from the present four and six cents an hour to six and nine cents an hour.
4. Three weeks vacation after 15 years of service effective Jan. 1, 1952.
5. Retroactive to the past March 1. Previously the industry had said it could pay back wages only to March 30.

THIS DOES not involve a great deal of money, however, because the steel strike started June 2 and the retroactive pay would naturally be cut off on that date.

6. A reduction in the Southern differential by five cents an hour. Only U. S. Steel and Republic are affected on this point. Present pay differentials between North and South average 10 cents higher in the North.

7. The agreement anticipates a two year contract effective June 30, 1952 with a wage reopener on June 30, 1953.

8. On the sticky union shop issue, the parties agreed to a modified union shop arrangement which exempts all present employees who are not members of the union and gives all new employees the right to leave the union at any time during the past 15 days of the first month they work.

Workers Hail Steel Strike End

PITTSBURGH, July 24 (AP)—Jubilant workers began to talk on the southside section of Pittsburgh near a sprawling plant of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, a group of workers kidded each other good naturedly. One man declared:

"Thank God I can keep my car. In another month it would have gone to a credit agency."

Frank Henry, a crane operator, raised a glass of beer to his lips, then said: "Sincerely, this is my first drink since the Fourth of July. Happy Independence Day to everybody."

A FEW workers expressed disappointment with the retroactivity provision in the new agreement which provides back pay to March 1. They said they had hoped the union would have insisted on past Jan. 1 when the old contract expired.

However, generally the workers—and officials of local unions—seemed satisfied. Evan (Buck) Jones, president of a 5000-member Local 1271 at the J and L works, said:

"We are following Phil Murray to the end. We are sure he has gotten us as much as he could and we will back his decision."

Many of the steelworkers took the occasion to laud Murray, the 65-year old president of both the CIO and the Steelworkers union.

"I'm 100 percent back of Murray," commented John Katrinsak, chairman of a grievance committee of USW Local 1397 at nearby Homestead where U. S. Steel has a big plant.

Joseph Donovan, a laborer, declared: "I am a very happy man. I think the union has won on its terms. They sure sound satisfactory."

Joe Siket chimed in to say: "This is wonderful news to me. Brother I was just about down and out. Only the other day my wife had to give me a haircut."

The men with families are particularly happy. Charley Smith, a J and L shipper and the father of three children, said:

"My family is tickled to death and so am I. It sure seems good to think of returning to work. I don't know whether we got all we wanted but Phil Murray has my faith."

East German Communists Organize Youth 'Army'

BERLIN, July 24 (AP)—The Communist East German Government announced tonight creation of an organization which could be used for disguised military training.

A communique said all East German youths of both sexes above 17 will be asked to join the new body for six-month terms on a "voluntary basis." It has been named "Dienst Fuer Deutschland" (service for Germany), and its units will be called "brigades."

POLITICAL SIGNS JOIN PREXY RACE

Candidates' Gimmicks Fill All Souvenir Requirements, Proclaim 'People's Choice'

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 24.—Whipping up political enthusiasm is like starting a fire in an old-fashioned pot bellied stove.

The fire burns faster and brighter if a little kerosene is judiciously applied.

So, this morning enthusiasm whippersnappers were running around, stashing up political kerosene for president nominating day in the Democratic National convention.

Flunkies carried in the inevitable signs. Most of these were scattered around upside down, so that the place looked like a garden put in by an optimistic bean grower. The stakes were there, waiting for the beans to grow.

HUGE BOXES of noise makers were laboriously carried on the floor. Horns were passed out. Balloons were brought in.

(Supporters of Kefauver seemed to feel their candidate's chances would soar higher on these gas filled balloons; they had more than anybody.)

A nice old lady came by the press section.

"All of you take one," said the nice old lady.

She passed out horns that obviously were left over from a New Year's Eve celebration. They were stamped "Russell".

REPORTERS—nearly all of whom are fathers who have faithfully promised to bring home souvenirs for the kids—took them.

Fellow went by carrying a huge punk of striped candy.

It must have been six inches thick and three feet long. "Stuck with Dick," the slogan read under a picture of Russell.

A man smoking a big cigar came in loaded down with "W. Want Aves" signs. Pretty soon he came back, empty handed, headed for another load.

He passed a skinny man tolling along under a load of Steven signs. Like ants they were storing their enthusiasm in their political anthills.

NO ONE ever has been able to figure out how much of any demonstration is genuine and how much is spurious.

An oldtimer in this business said he thought that he'd never seen so much genuine feeling as that displayed in the nation given Vice President Barkley.

Yet even here the whippersnappers were passing out "Barkley for President" banners well in advance. And the orchestra leader and organist were lining up appropriate music.

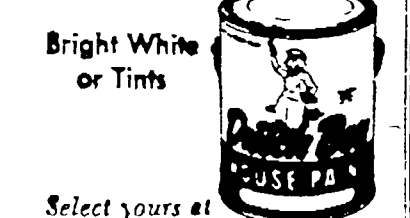

It's like that fire in the pot bellied stove. It undoubtedly would have burned brightly any way, but why take chances?

Pittsburgh Area Business Shows Slight Increase

PITTSBURGH, July 24.—Business in the Pittsburgh district last week edged up a trifle to $37 per cent of the 1935-39 average, the University of Pittsburgh's bureau of business research reported to day.

There was a drop in the volume of trade which was more than offset by small gains in industrial production and freight shipments. The steel input rate stood at about 8 percent of rated capacity.

The bureau said business in the district for the past six weeks generally held at levels more than 30 percent lower than in the week immediately preceding the steel strike.

WILKES BARRE, July 24.—Mayor Anthony B. Dreier of Nanticoke, this afternoon waived a preliminary hearing on five accusations brought by District Attorney Louis G. Feldmann and posted bail in the amount of $2500 for trial.

The hearing scheduled to take place before Justice of the Peace Russell Evans at Wilkes-Barre, resolved itself into a private conference in a back office between the justice and interested parties.

The Nanticoke mayor has been charged by District Attorney Feldmann with "violation of his oath of office, embezzlement, violation of election laws, misfeasance and malfeasance in office."

CHARLIE CHAPLIN SUES NBC for $3 Million

NEW YORK, July 24.—Charlie Chaplin has filed suit in federal court for three million dollars damages from the National Broadcasting company and H. V. Gardner, newspaper columnist and radio commentator.

The moving picture star said yesterday in his suit a Gardner broadcast over NBC on July 4 was made "with the hope and expectation that the listening public of the United States would be caused to believe that Chaplin was a Communist and a liar."

Chaplin said Gardner's radio comment and syndicated articles conveyed the innuendo that he favored Communist motion pictures, favored violent overthrow of the United States and that he had lied in denying he gave an interview to a French Communist newspaper.

The film actor said the syndicated articles appeared in the New York Herald Tribune, the Long Beach, Calif., Press Telegram and other newspapers, which he did not name. No action was brought against the papers themselves.

NBS had no immediate comment on the suit.

"Not having received any summons," said Gardner, "I have no comment to make."

Democrats Plan on Using Tools of Their '48 Victory

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—The Democrats had led the nation to the "broadest" prosperity in history. Then, as now, the GOP contended prosperity had a "false" basis provided by Government spending.

In 1948, the Democrats said they were putting the United States into the forefront of a world drive for the "four freedoms." Their foes, the Republicans, charged Democratic foreign policy often "lacked competence or consistency."

The party expressed confidence, in a bulky platform heavy with self-praise, that these tools would forge another victory next November. The platform was adopted by the party's National convention early today.

Republicans, in their National convention here two weeks ago, anticipated the Democratic arguments.

"THEY (DEMOCRATS) claim prosperity," the GOP platform said, "but the appearance of economic health is created by war expenditures, waste and extravagance, planned emergencies, and war crises."

As to Democratic peace claims, the Republicans had this to say: "We charge that the leaders of the Administration in power lost the peace so dearly earned in World War II."

In 1948, the Democrats campaigned on a platform that boasted:

They had led the nation to the "broadest" prosperity in history. Then, as now, the GOP contended prosperity had a "false" basis provided by Government spending.

In 1948, the Democrats said they were putting the United States into the forefront of a world drive for the "four freedoms." Their foes, the Republicans, charged Democratic foreign policy often "lacked competence or consistency."

The outcome of the 1948 ballot battle turned largely on the economic issue, with farmers in the normally - Republican Midwest tipping the scales in favor of President Harry S. Truman over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

SO, IT'S most likely that this year's Democratic campaign will be pitched on this 1952 platform declaration:

"An objective appraisal of the past record clearly demonstrates that the Democratic party has been the chosen American instrument to achieve prosperity, build a stronger democracy, erect the structure of world peace, and continue on the path of progress."

The Democrats, like the Republicans, escaped a threatened convention floor battle this year between Northern and Southern delegates over the civil rights issue.

The Democrats pledged Federal legislation to "effectively secure" for Negroes and other racial groups equal opportunities to vote and work and security of person. The Republicans declared this problem was largely one for the states to handle, but expressed belief that the Federal Government should take "supplementary" action.

The Democratic plank on this issue was more nearly to the liking of Northern advocates of strong action to wipe out racial discrimination, while the GOP stand was closer to that urged by Southern opponents of Federal intervention.

The civil rights proponents won one declaration from the Democrats which they failed to get from the Republicans—a statement in favor of "improving" House and Senate rules which are used sometimes by minorities to keep legislation from coming to a vote.

The stands taken by the Democratic and Republican platforms on major issues included:

Foreign policy — Democrats endorsed Truman administration foreign policies, which they said, are designed to secure and maintain peace through co-operation with friendly nations. The Republicans would follow the same general policies, but would limit them to the "enlightened self-interest" of this country.

National defense — both pledged strong air, sea and land forces. 4-8 in Lewistown.

President Truman Moves Up Schedule For Chicago Trip

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—President Truman today moved up the time of his departure for Chicago tomorrow to 2 p. m. (Pottstown time).

He is flying to Chicago to speak at the Democratic national convention following the selection of a presidential nominee tomorrow night.

His plane, "The Independence," is due in Chicago at 4:30 p. m. (Pottstown time).

Secretary Short said the President will go direct from the Chicago airport to his suite in the Blackstone hotel. He will stay there until 6 p. m., leaving for a small private dinner at the Saddle and Sirloin club where he will remain until he walks to convention hall for his speech.

He then plans to return to the hotel for the night, leaving sometime Saturday morning for Kansas City.

Short said the President would stay at the family home in Independence, Mo., but be in and out of Kansas City until Aug. 5 when he votes in the Missouri Democratic primary.

The GOP charged the Administration has been lagging in achieving this goal.

Civil Rights Plank Writers Avoid Word 'Compulsory'

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Both Democratic and Republican National conventions, in writing civil rights planks, avoided like the plague any use of the words "compulsory" and "Fair Employment Practices Commission."

Their use probably would have caused walkouts of delegates from both conventions.

Advocates of Federal civil rights legislation have long sought the creation of a Fair Employment Practices commission with power to compel employers to give equal treatment to all colors and races in the hiring and firing of workers.

Southern leaders have opposed such an agency with all the power at their command. They contend the question of racial discrimination is for State and local agencies to handle. They want no "interference" from the outside.

BECAUSE OF the threat of party splits, compromisers in both parties secured adoption of planks that ducked those words.

The Democratic plank promised "Federal action" to end racial discrimination. Northern civil rights proponents interpreted this as meaning an FEPC with compulsory powers.

Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, hailed the plank as a "signal victory for the forces of liberalism in the party." He conceded, however, that he would have been happier had the wording been more specific.

Dixieland leaders, while agreeing in some cases that the plank was stronger than that of 1948, accepted it because it did not specifically pledge an FEPC with powers of compulsion.

Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, a Southern leader, said he believed Dixie could "live" with the plank.

A feature of the Democratic platform that pleased Northern civil rights advocates was a section urging change in Congressional procedures which permit minorities to keep legislation from coming to a vote. They say there is little chance of getting Federal civil rights law as long as House and Senate rules remain what they are.

The Republican plank took the position that there should be Federal action to secure "just" treatment for racial groups, but only where States fail. It declared against a Federal "bureaucracy" to do the job.

While less pleased with the GOP statement than that of the Democrats, some Northern civil rights leaders said they would interpret it to mean "effective" Federal action.

Southern Republicans, on the other hand, took it without much complaint because it left out the word "compulsory" in connection with promised action and opposed a Federal bureaucracy, which they interpreted to mean FEPC.

Republicans, to the dissatisfaction of many civil rights leaders, made no commitment to change Congressional procedures.

Following the game, the 18 boys were taken to Kenilworth playground where the club entertained them for an hour with a wiener roast.

Then, calmly, he called for nominating speeches—interrupted for hours by the Virginia fight—to resume.

Pottstown Optimists Beat Junior Club in Softball

Twenty-five members of the Pottstown Optimists' club saw an opposing team beat the Junior Optimists softball club in a last minute rally at Far Fields last night.

With the Knee-Hi league game registering a score of 6 to 4 in the last inning in favor of the Optimists, the spectators saw the Optimists ten put up a last ditch fight and emerge a 7 to 6 victor.

Following the game, the 18 boys were taken to Kenilworth playground where the club entertained them for an hour with a wiener roast.

'Impolite' Delegates Irk Texan

When some members of the Texas delegation remained seated and silent during the ovation for Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt at the Democratic Convention in Chicago, Joseph Stedman, of Austin, Tex., thought something should be done about it. At top, he is shown angrily proclaiming his displeasure as efforts are made to restrain him. Later, it was reported, someone puffed Stedman in the nose. Below, the irate Texan is ushered from hall by a policeman and usher.

CHINESE ARMY SHIFTS ATTACKS

Main Blows Directed
At T-Bone Hill After
Old Baldy Pounding

SEOUL, Friday, July 25 (AP) — Chinese forces shifted their main blows from Old Baldy to nearby T-Bone hill on the Western Korean front today but dug-in French troops drove off an attack by about 500 Communists.

An Allied officer at the front said three Chinese companies attacked the French battalion on the southern knob of T-Bone hill shortly after midnight.

The Reds were caught in a cross-fire by French units stationed at several outpost positions. They withdrew after two hours of fighting. The Allied officer said the Chinese suffered "considerable casualties."

The French battalion is attached to the U. S. Second Division which has been battling to retain Old Baldy the past two weeks.

The Eighth Army announced that the veteran Second Division now is in the thick of the fighting west of Chorwon, scrapping to hold on to several key outpost peaks overlooking the main lines of both sides.

DURING THE night, Chinese troops also attacked Second Division positions on the southeast end of Old Baldy. The Reds hold the crest and the north slope.

In the air war, B-29 Superforts from Okinawa last night bombed the Hamhung rail yard, the nearby Hungnam supply depot in North-east Korea and Red battleline positions.

B-29 light bombers and Marine night flyers attacked Communist trucks.

The Second Division replaced the 45th Division which took the hill last month. In the past seven days possession of the crest has changed hands several times, with a Red attack driving the Americans off last Tuesday. The Americans are dug in on the southeast slope.

WHILE GROUP fighting eased off Friday morning, Allied fighter-bomber planes continued heavy attacks against Red rail bridges and frontline targets.

The Fifth Air Force said Thursday strikes knocked out six Communist rail bridges high up in Northwest Korea and on the East Coast. Three of the bridges cut were between Kanggye and Hui-chon near the Manchurian border.

Flying Saucers Reported
By Philadelphia Woman

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (AP) — There was a report of flying saucers in Philadelphia today.

Miss Anna H. Bethell said she saw a cluster of what looked like flying saucers shortly after 9 p. m. yesterday, while watching from the backyard of her North Philadelphia home. She said the saucers were yellowish in color and seemed to be following in the path of a moving plane. She said they traveled with the speed of shooting stars.

Great Steel Strike
Is Longest, Costliest
In Industry History

PITTSBURGH, July 24 (AP) — The great steel strike of 1952 goes down in history as the industry's longest and costliest.

During the 33 days of the basic steel walkout, the number of idle grew to almost two million, including the workers idled in allied and steel-using industries.

Iron Age, an authoritative metal working journal, estimates the strike cost at four billion dollars. The 600,000 striking members of the CIO United Steelworkers lost an estimated 350 million dollars in wages. Furloughed workers in railroad, coal mining and steel fabricating industries lost uncounted millions more.

No one can estimate the value of the lost production in all kinds of plants making everything from bobby pins to locomotives.

THE EFFECT of the walkout on the nation's defense program is hard to gauge but several defense plants were closed. Output of ammunition was particularly hard hit.

The steel strike may cause some after effects which could deal the industry a body blow next winter. Some 25,000 iron ore miners went on strike along with the steelworkers. That stopped shipments of iron ore via the Great Lakes during much of the Summer shipping season.

Anti-Qavam Demonstrators in Tehran

Demonstrators against the appointment of Ahmed Qavam as premier of Iran carry off one of their wounded during riots in Tehran. The riots swept Qavam from his briefly-held office and reinstated Mohammed Mossadegh as prime minister. A frenzied mob of 50,000 shouted anew for the death of Qavam and anti-American feeling rose from growing belief that the United States had supported Qavam whose announced intention to seek a settlement with Britain had caused the rioting.

Nanticoke Mayor Faces 5 Charges

WILKES-BARRE, July 24 (AP) — Nanticoke Mayor Anthony B. Dreier appeared as scheduled before Justice of the Peace W. Howell Evans, Wyoming, this afternoon and posted $2500 bail to await grand jury action on five charges pertaining to his conduct in office.

District Attorney Louis G. Feldmann has charged Dreier with violation of his oath of office, embezzlement, violation of the election laws, misfeasance and malfeasance in office. The total amount of bail represented $500 on each charge.

The Commonwealth was prepared to call Ralph Farmer, former Nanticoke policeman, William Palmer, August Shemanski and Henry Smithers, city employees, to testify if Dreier had insisted on a preliminary hearing.

Former Police Chief John Smierski was en route to the formal arraignment from Stroudsburg and called the district attorney's office when his car broke down near Moosic.

The charges against Dreier will be considered by the grand jury convening on Aug. 25. They are the result of testimony given during Dreier's unsuccessful $100,000 libel suit against the Sunday Inquirer last May.

Russia Asked To Stir Korea

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The United States has asked Russia to prod the North Korean and Chinese Communists to abide by the Geneva rules for protecting war prisoners, the State department disclosed today.

The note, delivered yesterday in Moscow, accused the Communist satellites of three specific violations of the 1949 Geneva convention, although both stated they would abide by its terms.

Both have refused, the U. S. charged, to permit an inspection of prisoner camps by an impartial international body, have failed to deliver relief parcels and have exposed the United Nations captives to peril by placing camps near military objectives.

In a parallel action the U. S. asked the International committee of the Red Cross again to approach the North Korean and Red China authorities in an effort to work out an agreement to put the rules into effect. The UN command has consistently and "in good faith" carried out the convention all along, Russia was told.

The American move was timed apparently for the opening of the 18th International Red Cross conference at Toronto where the Communists are expected to renew charges that it is the United States and the United Nations which are violating humanitarian principles in the Korean conflict.

RUSSIA AND the other Soviet bloc regimes including East Germany as well as Red China and North Korea are sending strong delegations to the conference although the Communists have repeatedly attacked the International Red Cross as an agent of the Western "imperialists."

Three weeks after the Korean fighting started the North Korean Communist regime announced it would abide by the Geneva convention although not a signatory. Peiping followed up July 18 this year with the declaration that it would adhere with numerous stated reservations to this and earlier Geneva treaty outlawing gas and germ warfare.

Breakdown Given On Steel Prices

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Here is the breakdown on the steel price ceiling increase granted in connection with the agreement to end the strike.

$2.84 a ton under the Capehart amendment to the Economic Control law which allows boosts to cover cost increases up to the past July 26.

70 cents to cover the freight rate increase of the past May 2.

$1.66 to apply to the agreed wage increase.

That comes to $5.20 a ton which is the raise for the common carbon steel. Alloys and special steels cost more and get a higher boost.

Adlai Stevenson Is Nominated by Fellow Governors

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Two of his fellow governors today jointly nominated Adlai Stevenson of Illinois for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker from Stevenson's neighboring State of Indiana told the packed convention that the Illinois Governor is the man we cannot permit to say no.

In a joint nominating speech, Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware said Stevenson is "the one man who will bring victory to the Democratic party in November."

"During the entire course of his brilliant career he has never sought public office nor does he now," Carvel said.

THE OFFICE has continually sought him but whenever he has been called by his State or nation he has willingly and unselfishly answered that call.

Stevenson's humility, dignity and capacity for confident leadership have excited the imagination of the people of the American people," Schricker said.

Schricker praised the Illinois Governor as the possessor of "a powerful first rate mind."

"As an executive he brings to the Administration of government that prestige and integrity which attract able men to the public service."

"Gov. Stevenson is a man of unquestioned integrity, a man of energy and dedication."

Schricker said the Illinois Governor was "a seasoned realist about America's role in world affairs."

But with the advantages of his exceptional background, he continued, he is insistent about the permanent significance of our collaboration in the United Nations and our adherence to the principle of collective security.

Adlai Stevenson will be magnificent trustee of the magnificent heritage of the Democratic party," Schricker asserted.

Schricker recalled that 92 years ago the nation called from the prairies of Illinois the greatest Illinois citizen Abraham Lincoln.

"Lincoln too was reluctant," he said, "but there are times when a man is not permitted to say no."

Egyptian Army General Mohammed Naguib seizes power in Cairo after the Army under his leadership saved the Government of Egypt. Naguib, a hero of the Palestine War, proclaimed himself Army commander in chief and pledged a drive against political corruption. At his orders officers arrested 12 generals known to be followers of Gen. Mohammed Haidar Pasha from whom Naguib wrested army control.

Lammot duPont Dies; Was Guiding Hand Of Giant Chemical Industry for 22 Years

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 24 (AP)—Lammot duPont, for 22 years his great grandfather, was the guiding hand of the vast multi-million dollar E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company, Inc., in the development of numerous and important chemical products from a small black powder factory to one of the world's great chemical companies.

The 71-year-old industrialist who participated in the development of the atom bomb, helped supply America's armed forces with munitions in World War Two and sponsored the development of nylon, succumbed in a hospital here after about a month's illness.

Dr. Edward Gipstein, a heart specialist who attended the retired president and board chairman of the duPont interests, announced that the Wilmington, Del. native entered the hospital on July 11 after falling ill at his Summer home on Fishers island. The illness had prevented him from attending the company's 150th anniversary celebration the past Friday.

Lammot was the eighth member of his family and one of his sons included 21 killed, 146 wounded, one brother in action and three in their brother in succession to head the company.

President Commutes Sentence of Collazo

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—President Truman decided today to spare the life of Oscar Collazo, the little Puerto Rican Nationalist sentenced to die in the electric chair Aug. 1 for the slaying of a guard in an attempt to assassinate the President.

The White House announced that Collazo's sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short made the announcement without further comment. No explanation was given for the clemency, which Collazo himself refused to seek.

On Nov. 1, 1950, when Truman was living temporarily in Blair House, across the street from the White House, Collazo and an accomplice, Griselio Torresola, tried to rush the door of the presidential residence.

THERE WAS a wild gun fight in which Torresola and Pvt. Leslie Coffey, a White House guard, were killed. Collazo and three other guards were wounded. The President caught a glimpse of the fight when he rushed to the window from a bed on which he had been napping.

During his trial here a year ago the past March Collazo conceded that he fired the first shot in the gun battle but it was established that the bullet which killed Coffey came from Torresola's gun.

Collazo, 38-year-old member of a group of Puerto Rican extremists, testified that he and Torresola did not intend to kill anybody. They came to Washington to make a demonstration in behalf of Puerto Rican independence, he said.

Nevertheless, a Federal court jury convicted Collazo on two counts of first degree murder. He was sentenced to death April 6, 1951 by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

"Anything that I have done I went to the Senate against the odds for the liberty of my country," Collazo said just before he was sentenced.

Removal of the arrest order said the General told the Span only one man a stabbing victim had been killed during the gas whereas many were dead.

The true state of affairs was reported brought to the monarch at his Summer palace outside Tehran by his younger brother.

Browning Asserts Sen. Kefauver Has People's Mandate

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 24 (AP)—Gov. Gordon Browning of Tennessee today put before the Democratic convention the name of Sen. Estes Kefauver as a man with a mandate from the people.

"He believes in the 'tested rights' of the common man," said the Governor, "in his ability to govern himself, in his right to protect against monopoly."

"He believes in placing human rights above property rights; in other words, he is an apostle of sound Americanism."

"He is not an advocate of the philosophy of standing still," Browning went on. "He is not for the repeal of the 20th century. He believes that we should take these conditions as we find them and follow our people to success and for the great accomplishments for which America was born and for which she has been built."

"THIS MAN first came into prominence nationally with the victory he won over communism. He ought to know because he and I had the same opposition at that time, and we not only overcame it, but we challenged the voice of those in Tennessee who wanted a managed economy of politics in the State and laid it wide open to the people. That is what he wants for America."

This referred to the 1948 campaign in which Browning captured the governorship and Kefauver posed of the organization long Collazo said just before he was sentenced.

Shades of 1920 Are Seen In Fall's New Hat Styles

The Fall hat story isn't a tall tale—but it's a deep one. Both Paris and New York milliners promise that next Fall's high-fashion hat silhouette will be predominantly deep of crown and shallow of brim. It's the look of the 1920's all over again, with a slightly modified twist. The cloche, beret and pillbox will be the outstanding hat shapes. But they will fit down firmly on the head, covering virtually all of the short-cropped hairdos and a good measure of even the longest bobs. The general line of both crown and brim will be downward-sweeping, and even decorative accents such as feathers, etc., will be pointed toward the shoulder rather than skyward.

YMCA Swimming Class To Begin Monday in 'Y'

The third girls' swimming class of the Summer will begin at the YMCA, Monday at 9:30 o'clock, and will be held for ten consecutive days, Monday through Friday. All girls from 9 years of age up are eligible to enroll. For further information, those interested may contact Mr. Len Bernhardt at the YMCA.

Dinner Duo

For the very newest and smartest early Fall costume, one that has already been ordered by some of the country's most fashion-conscious women, we refer you to this picture. Hansen Bang comes up with a beautiful and novel ensemble, a coat of beige wool fleecy over a dress of beige silk shantung. The coat is lined to match the dress, and has a large single flap pocket. The dress has self-buttons and belt, and an accordion pleated skirt. Seemingly casual in cut and approach, the coat and dress have that rare attribute, distinction.

Snyder Home Scene Of McAfee Reunion At Ludwig's Corner

A reunion was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Snyder, Ludwig's Corner, by the families of Mrs. Annie Fand McAfee and the late Mr. Jacob McAfee. Two family get-togethers were held during World War II days when boys were home on a furlough. It was decided to hold annual reunions on the third Sunday in each July. Officers are Mr. Harold McAfee, president; Mrs. Harvey Snyder, secretary, and Mr. George Page, treasurer.

MEMBERS OF the game committee, Mr. Edgar Lockart, Mr. Vernon Houck and Mrs. Harvey Snyder, provided games for old and young. The men fashioned paper dresses for the ladies and a peanut scramble, wheelbarrow race, etc., were held for the children. A cake walk accompanied on the accordion by Mr. Lockart was won by Mrs. Joseph Derrioli. The guest cake with a nut from a bolt placed under the lower layer was uncut.

Watermelon and cold drinks were supplied by Mr. Charles Bannon, Mr. Leroy Becker and Mrs. William McAfee, refreshment committee.

During the business session it was decided to purchase a plant each year to place on Mr. McAfee's grave on Father's Day. Also as a memorial to their son, George, his birth and death date was engraved on the family marker. About 50 relatives and friends enjoyed the old fashioned picnic dinner and supper. The oldest member present was Mrs. McAfee and the youngest in attendance was Mr. Ronald Derrioli.

The wedding of Miss Helen Lockart and Mr. Edgar Graycar was the only one to take place during the past year. The five births were George Vernon Houck, Thomas Earl McAfee, Stephen Edward Graycar, Bonnie Lee Becker and Ronald Paul Derrioli. The McAfee and son, Douglas; Mr. James Lockart who is serving in Korea.

THOSE ATTENDING were Mrs. McAfee, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lockart, Mr. Edgar Lockart, Mr. and Mrs. Page, Mrs. John Curchoe and children, Guvline, Barbara and John Curchoe Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Houck and son, George; Mr. and Mrs. Graycar and son, Stephen; Mr. Thomas McAfee, Miss Edith McAfee, Miss Jean McAfee, Mr. and Mrs. Derrioli and sons, Joseph Jr. and Ronald and Mr. and Mrs. Harold McAfee. Also, Mr. and Mrs. William McAfee, Mrs. Helen McAfee, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder and son, Douglas; Mrs. Theodore Bannon, Miss Mary Bannon, Miss Emma Bannon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bannon, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Becker and daughter, Bonnie; Mr. and Mrs. Walter McAfee and children, Kenneth, James and Barbara; Mr. Albert Snyder, Mr. Merlin Andrew, Mr. Edward Quigley, Mrs. William Harboldt and Miss Carol Updegrave.

All sanitation facilities were withered. City engineers diverted about ten million gallons of water from the Pentagon to bolster supplies for city areas affected by the valve break.

Mail Statistics Convention — Told ABC by Postal Official

About 30 billion pieces of mail are handled yearly by the U. S. Post Office and every letter is handled a minimum of 11 times. These postal statistics came from President and vice-president would Postal Inspector L. E. Smith when he addressed 26 members of the American Business club at a meeting last night.

Elaborating on a quotation made by a Postmaster General in 1899 that "the U. S. postal service is the largest business in this country," Smith disclosed other facts and figures about the mails.

"There are about 50,000 workers in the postal system with 85 percent of them employed in collecting and distributing letters and parcels," he told his audience.

HE WENT ON to acquaint his listeners that there are approximately 400 billion money orders made annually worth about $300 billion.

In relating the requirements for his own job as postal inspector, he said that a minimum of five years service in the post office is needed and qualifying individuals have to be between the ages of 23 and 37. "A minimum of 24 inspectors are appointed yearly," he said.

Attached to the Philadelphia division which handles Pennsylvania and New Jersey cases, Smith explained that inspectors are used for investigating all bona fide complaints concerning registered mails and frauds.

The address was followed by a short meeting of the board of governors who voted a donation of $64 to the Fresh Air fund which helps send underprivileged children to the Pottstown Community camp.

J. ALFRED MARQUET, local Postmaster, was a guest at last night's meeting. William Hillegas, president, while Joseph Bowen was program chairman.

Next week's gathering will take place at the Village inn on Swamp pike in Fruitville.

Open House Planned For School Wing

The public will get a chance to inspect the new wing of Collegeville-Trappe High school in September.

Directors of the joint school board voted last night to conduct an open house late in September. The new gray stone wing will include class rooms, a cafeteria and medical center for pupils. It has been under construction for more than a year.

Addition of the new wing will balance the school architecturally. The high school building, first opened in 1939, included plans for two wings, but a cut in the State appropriation, made the north wing of the school an impossibility.

The joint board awarded contracts for school supplies. President Joel B. Francis was in charge.

the convention itself voted to let the party's presidential nomination.

The vote in Virginia's case was 648 to 512 (with 693 not recorded).

The controversy over Virginia threw the convention into total confusion and greatly delayed the conclusion of nominating speeches.

State after State first voted one way, then another.

AT ONE point a clear majority of the delegates had voted against letting Virginia remain.

Then frantic efforts by peace-peddled and the shift executed. But makers—including backers of Gov. Rayburn—had been in the game.

Adlai Stevenson—caused a swing in the vote toward adopting a motion to do that without violating any rules laid down by Roberts, Hoyle or the Marquis of Queensbury.

All the tricks of parliamentary maneuver—sometimes they took on the look of filibuster—came into play during the long session.

Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, a Kefauver supporter, made the motion to recess. Another member of the Illinois delegation moved that Douglas's motion be laid on the table. It was this second motion that came up for the roll call vote.

But the central issue was plain: Whether to stay in session and fight it out or quit for the night.

The decision: Stay and fight.

DOUGLAS MADE his motion before Rayburn announced the result of an earlier vote on the question whether South Carolina and Louisiana delegations should be allowed to stay in the convention despite their refusal to sign a party loyalty pledge.

Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia proposed this peace offering to the South only a short time after Virginia—and Louisiana and South Carolina—could not vote in the convention until they took the loyalty pledge.

THAT'S A promise to return home and work to get the party candidates on State ballots. All but three from Louisiana, with two votes among them, refused to do that.

Virginia made it known that the party nominees, by law, will be on the November ballot in the Old Dominion State.

Maryland proposed that on that basis Virginia delegates be allowed to stay on in the feuding convention.

It took a roll call—a ballot such as seldom has been seen on a convention floor—to decide the issue.

At one point, enough votes had been cast to keep Virginia from taking part in the convention decisions. But Stevenson forces went to work and delegation after delegation was persuaded to switch or alter its vote.

ILLINOIS—STEVENSON's home State—at first had voted largely against the motion to recognize Virginia. Then it led the change, in a strategy move designed to give the cue to other Stevenson strongholds.

There was stalling and time killing. There were polls of individual delegations that allowed breathing space for Stevenson backers to work on holdouts.

Rayburn ruled that the three Louisianians still left in the convention could cast all 20 votes the State originally had, unless one of the members challenged the absence of a quorum.

Kefauver lieutenants in South Dakota saw the trend and who was behind it.

The South Dakota chairman arose and announced that the delegation was taking a walk in "protest against the grossly unfair methods of the chairman."

THIS KISS COST MONEY
LONDON, July 24 (AP)—Alex Herd, 23, stole a kiss from a pretty blonde in a park today. Judge Sir Herbert Dunnico fined him 40 shillings ($5.60) and suggested next time he feels romantic he should be careful not to kiss a policeman.

It's Easy to Diet Sensibly With Common Sense, Will

It's easy to diet and not despair. There are simpler ways to reduce than faddish methods which stock grocery and medicine shelves with new-to-the-palate food and pills.

Years ago, a plan was formulated for weight-reduction, which proved effective. This model diet has been used by lots of people since, has been improved upon a bit with suggestions of doctors here and there, and is the most effective diet for the average person. All this diet takes is common sense, a little will power and a good memory.

There is no calorie count involved in this diet. But it does eliminate foods which cream if you must. are eaten merely for good. Vegetables have their own flavor—grapes, pears, apples, etc. Don't drench them in salt souped-up dishes such as which holds water in the tissues, soups, as grain casseroles and or smother them with sauces, exotic concoctions. (cream, hollandaise, etc., are ta-

As a reducing measure it should be observed as given. After a week or ten days of the diet, or when you are down to the proper weight, eat those same foods, increasing the amount. You can learn to like vegetables without masses of sauces to dress them up, meat without gravies, fruits or cereal desserts instead of heavy cakes or pies. When the diet is over, you will savor occasionally and have a heaping bowl of spaghetti or a plate of chili con carne or a delicious curry, perhaps. But a radish or two before dinner will help fill you up before the main how to pick and choose your foods course. A half grapefruit for dessert to keep slim and healthy. isert is another filler-up.

LIKE EVERYTHING else, the first day is the hardest. Here goes your basic diet:

Eat these foods every day. (A choice from each category.)

(A) 1 1/2 to 2 lb. of lean meat, poultry, cheese or fish (depending on your work and normal appetite.)

(B) 1 tablespoon of butter (This must also suffice for any fat used in cooking.)

(C) 1 slice of bread or 8 soda crackers.

(D) 1 citrus fruit and 2 other servings of fruit.

(E) 4 to 5 vegetables. (You should include at least one leafy and one yellow vegetable and a potato boiled or baked.)

(F) 1 pint of skim milk (buttermilk can be used as a substitute.)

(G) 2 eggs (or cottage cheese or a couple of slices of American or Swiss cheese.)

Eat all the foods you are permitted for best results. Be sure to eat your butter and drink your skimmed milk to keep your health up to par. Taper off from your normal heavy meals for a few days, substituting these new diet-food suggestions, gradually. If you do not normally eat breakfast—or eat a light one of fruit and coffee—reducing will be easier.

Although the potato is a high-calorie vegetable, one is permitted each day.

YOU MUST learn to remember high-calorie foods, and avoid them in preference to other foods while you are dieting. Some of these are: Softball, lima beans, the squash, turnip, shell beans, baked beans, green peas, bacon, sausages, ice cream, ice cream, pastries, rice, sweet potatoes.

Foods you can eat liberally include: Spinach, string beans, mushrooms, eggplant, water chest, cauliflower, sauerkraut, radishes, Swiss chard, cabbage, celery, grapefruit, lettuce, pineapple, tangerines, cantaloupe, tomatoes, brussels sprouts, asparagus.

Unless you can't resist, when off your diet, don't fall into routine eating, such as: soup before meals, or snacks before dinner, or sandwiches for lunch (which will only make you hungrier before dinner). Pick and choose the things you like from your list each day, and eat them at whatever meal you like.

Don't drink water with your meals. Learn to drink coffee or tea, hot or iced, without sugar. Substitute your diet.

Of course, high-grade perfumes are expensive. If a girl feels that the beauty budget won't stand the strain, she should purchase a high-grade toilet water that costs much less and which she can use lavishly without feeling that she is a spendthrift. Sachets are wonderful buys. They are not so concentrated as perfumes but in well-loved fragrances they are authentic. Stick perfumes are nice, too.

For the sake of economy, keep toilet water in an atomizer. Don't let the atomizer stand where the sunlight will strike it. Better tuck it away in a drawer of your dressing table or in a cabinet. And see that the stopper is plugged in tightly.

After your bath, spray your neck, arms and shoulders. That is also the time to apply a deodorant or deodorant. Take no chance of letting the baneful B.O. catch you.

These deodorant aids come in various forms—powders, creams, lotions and sticks. If one doesn't

It's Not Too Early ...

Even now it's not too early to think ahead to Fall, and to think about your Fall headgear. There's no doubt about it—the cloche is ringing a bell, if the pun may be excused. Anyway, it is a shape that is particularly liked by the young women while the more mature woman insists that it is not the most youthful hat in the world. This one is of black felt, all-over embroidered in matching French knots and banded with red velvet and silver bullion. It is a nice first hat of early Fall, and nicely priced, too. The hat was created by a famous American designer, for a manufacturer of good but inexpensive hats.

Enjoy Summer Wardrobe Even On A Late Vacation

Summer isn't over until the leaves begin to fall. But most late vacationers feel obliged to take their winter underwear to a Summer resort and leave all their pretty white accessories at home. Summer clothes are so flattering they should be worn until the last possible moment.

There has been a great fad in recent years to rush the seasons, and Summer seems to be shorter in the fashion world than any other season. Along about the time we are all dripping with perspiration and lapping up iced drinks, store windows are showing black velvet hats and fur belts.

Girls who want to be in the fashion picture feel they braid or in florals or stripes are should stash away their white girdle and feminine assets to the linen and don black ensembles as soon as stores show them.

Stick to your runs and wear carefree clothes until you feel a chill in the air. Take all your lovely Summer clothes on your late vacation, but tuck cardigan sweaters or a light weight wool coat in your bag for chilly nights.

Adapt All New Styles In Clothes, Coiffures To Own Personality

Women are learning more and more about adapting make-up, hairdos and clothes to type and personality. It isn't true that we run like a flock of sheep toward every new style in raiment or beauty frenzy, as some men like to say. We keep in step with the parade, but have our own ideas as to what choices we should make in the selection of the items of our wardrobes.

A good sign is the restraint with which synthetic complexion blooms are applied. The idea is not to flaunt make-up, thus being conspicuous, but to create the illusion of loveliness. The rouge is carefully blended with powder so there are no border lines. The purpose is to make the feminine portrait more vivid, interesting.

As for dry goods, dowdiness is almost always due to lack of knowledge of one's type, as well as lack of taste. There are little sisters who are definitely the fluffy type. They can pile on ribbons and ruffles no end, still look all right. In fact, with them, the more ruffles, the better. They can have scrambled hair fluttering over their shoulders and it becomes them.

There are girls who look as if they were born to wear tailored clothes. They can brush their hair straight back, bun it at the nape. Fracks, hats and coats are as simple as can be, relying on fabric and line for chic. They can't bear much ornamentation.

All of the elderly sisters should not dress alike. Slim grandmas, not seventy can get away with 2:00 p.m., in Grace Lutheran church, are suitable for their granddaughters because these women are cute-looking, have gay spirits, keep stepping. The discolored ones, especially if they have taken on weight, must stick to dignified clothes if they are not to look out of character.

Clothes may not make the man, but they have an awful lot to do with making the woman look her very best.

Mexican Fashions Click Even Among Mexicans

Mexican styles have become so fashionable that even Mexican women are wearing them. Ten years ago there was not an off-the-shoulder blouse or a flaring skirt to be seen in Mexico City—except on the peasant women who came in to market. But Mexican designers who used these motifs found popularity abroad, and gradually Mexican fashions were imported back to their birthplace.

"Actually," said Mrs. Lawrence Gray, a fashion authority, "there was a renaissance of Mexican styles about 10 years ago. We got away from Paris influence and designs somewhat and began to make our own. We used pre-colonial embroidery, colors and designs."

The rebzo is an example—that long shawl Indian women have used for centuries. Now you'll see bath-takers had nothing on us in many places—Paris, New York, California, South America. They tubbed in marble instead of porcelain as we do, but they didn't have the fascinating, fragrant accessories in which we like to indulge to our heart's content. Mexican designs became fashion. Toiletries make scrubbing the epidermal coat a pleasurable indulgence indeed.

What a lot of items enter into this rite! Bland, high-grade soaps, brushes with firm bristles, bath salts—bubbled or without bubbles—dusting powders, friction lotions, soothing oils if the skin is rough, and a number of other whatnots for ablutions. You can find soaps that are scented with your favorite perfume. If you would give your face a real overhauling, rub the soap over the bristles of a complexion brush, and skim it over your sacred complexion. That is the first step to the bath. Rinse away the suds, put cream on your face. It will do its work for you while you are a tub singer or a shower songstress.

BATH SALTS match the soap in fragrance, and that will be all to the good. They soften the water, help remove dead skin scales to which the chemicals deposited by the sweat glands cling like all get-out. Of course you will use a deodorant or detergent, just in case! Nobody knows when the baneful B. O. is going to select one as an abode.

After you have draped yourself in the folds of a blanket sized bath towel, pat here and there until you are dry and then give yourself a talcum friction. Or, if you prefer, a tonic rub that will excite the blood streams so they will rush around like crazy to see what is happening. Your flesh will glow and you'll feel like a million dollars. You are as clean, as silk, you smell sweet, you are on your toes. So, up and at 'em! All this costs little money and about twenty minutes of time.

Eye Care Is Important For Beauty, Health; But Treat Them Gently

Beautiful eyes are a devastating feature. The tricks that a girl can play with them! What they can do to the susceptible hearts of the members of the so-called stern sex! It is a wonder and then some. You'd think, wouldn't you, that these precious heart-breakers would get the best of care. In many cases they don't. They are not only neglected, but abused, poor things!

The care of your soul orbs is essential to good looks, even more essential than the cosmetic blush you put upon your cheeks and the cherry smear on your lips.

IF YOUR EYES are tired and look inflamed, seek medical attention. If they don't do the reading job easily, toddle to a specialist and get glasses if he says you need them. Prejudice against glasses is not founded on good sense. It is plain silly. If you need them and won't wear them, you're going to get lines around your eyes. Then you'll think maybe you are getting old, which may not be the case at all.

Avoid using strong preparations near your eyes. If you are using a skin tonic, keep it away from the peepers. Never rub your eyes with your knuckles. Pressure may cause trouble. They are wonderfully delicate little cameras, need gentle treatment.

On dusty days you may need an eye lotion. You will probably find an eye cup more convenient than a dropper. Use fresh lotion for each eye.

THE FLESH around the eyes is incredibly soft and fine; that is why the first lines appear there. Ward off this good-looks grievance by using cream lavishly over those areas at least once a day. Tap in the emollient, smooth it on evenly. Working outward on the upper lid, come inward on the lower one.

If you feel the need of a darkening agent on your lashes, use mascara. The crayon is likely to leave a heavy mark and beading is out of the question, it is only for stage use, so don't monkey with it.

And while we're on the subject of eyes, there's a new cosmetic on the market that seems to make those deep under-eye circles disappear like magic. A white cream, you rub it in, blending it with a damp sponge. It creates a wonderful illusion, makes hollows vanish.

Royersford - Spring City

Royersford Music Writer Composes Marching Song

"Hurrah for the Boys in Korea," is the title of another song composed by Morris A. Barr, 284 Walnut street, Royersford, formerly of Valley Forge.

A marching song, set to music by Charles Beach, is appears in a photograph in a nationally known music magazine.

The lyrics of the song carry through the general thought expressed by Barr in a talk some months ago, at a dinner of the Three Links club in Phoenixville.

At that time Barr said, "There is nothing too great to be said about our soldier boys who lay down their lives daily that the great principles of American democracy may live on forever."

Just a little over two years ago Barr, in collaboration with G. Edwards Hillman, Spring City pianist, composed "After Sunset," which was broadcast over a McKeesport radio station.

In 1949 several of his poems appeared in a large volume published by a New York publishing house.

Barr, former owner of the spring water company at Valley Forge, is a member of the Music Club of Pittsburgh, and has always been interested in this type of work.

Two other songs, "A Sweet Young Country Girl," was published in Hollywood, and "The Old Bull Frog," was published in New Jersey.

"Eddie" Hillman, Barr's close friend and regular piano accompanist for Phoenixville Three Links club has been a valuable help in setting the words to music.

School Authorities Take Building Tour To View New Units

Royersford school authorities, faced with the need of a new elementary school building, visited several townships where new units have been added yesterday.

Members of the school board and Dr. Oliver C. Kuntzleman, supervising principal, went to Abington, Cheltenham and Lower Merion townships, as the first of three planned visitations where new buildings or new additions have been erected.

Inadequacies of the obsolete Adams building, Fourth avenue and Spring street, have been in the minds of school officials for some time.

A second visit is planned to the school districts of Lansdale, Springfield township, Lower Merion (Willow Grove) and Haverhill.

A third visit will include schools in the vicinity of Dover, Del.

EISENHOWER'S LIFE IN PICTURES:

IN THE RACE for the G. O. P. Presidential nomination, Ike made his first political speech in his home town at Abilene, Kansas, on June 6, 1952. The campaign was launched in a drenching rain.

A PARK BENCH served for a high policy conference between Eisenhower and Republican foreign affairs expert, John Foster Dulles. After several talks with Dulles, Eisenhower endorsed the expert's plan of mobile striking forces against threat of aggression.

(THE END)

A "NO-DEAL MAN" was the way Ike described himself in a fighting speech at Detroit in mid-June, 1952. Throwing away a prepared speech, he spoke only from notes as he outlined his position on key issues. He declared emphatically he owed nothing to any politician. ### Eisenhower's Campaign Head Is Summerfield

DENVER, July 24.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced today that GOP National Chairman Arthur Summerfield will serve as the Republican presidential nominee's campaign manager.

Arthur H. Vandenberg Jr., the General's executive assistant, coupled the announcement at a news conference with word that Summerfield and five other key figures in the Eisenhower campaign organization will come here next week for conferences with the General.

Those sessions will be in addition to one previously announced—Sunday's meeting of the General and his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Richard W. Nixon of California.

In addition to seeing Summerfield later in the week, Eisenhower also will confer with:

Gov. Sherman Adams, of New Hampshire, who will take over his new assignment as the General's political chief of staff; Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman of the Campaign Advisory committee; Walter Williams of Seattle and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord of New York, co-chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower committee; and Paul G. Hoffman, chairman of the Advisory committee to the citizens unit.

NIXON'S TALK with Eisenhower Sunday will be at the General's vacation ranch near Fraser, Colo., 72 miles west of Denver. Conferences with the others probably will be at the General's campaign headquarters here.

Vandenberg, son of the late Senator from Michigan, talked to newsmen shortly after arriving here from a series of New York conferences with Summerfield and others.

He said the sessions dealt with campaign organizational problems and added:

"I think everything is in a very harmonious state."

Vandenberg plans to report to the General tomorrow at his Rocky mountain vacation retreat.

W. Germany OK'd In Spite of Red Velo

TORONTO, July 24.—Russia and Red China failed on five separate ballots today in their campaign to bar West Germany from the League of Red Cross societies. Ceylon and San Marino, the tiny Communist-ruled republic surrounded by Italy, were admitted to the league's executive committee. On the final ballot to accept West Germany, the vote was 15 to 2, with Yugoslavia abstaining.

Lutheran Envoys Meet Minus Red Delegates

HANNOVER, Germany, July 24.—Delegates representing Lutheran churches in 24 countries of the free world assembled tonight for the opening of the Lutheran World Federation tomorrow. Only the representatives of churches behind the Iron Curtain were apparently unlikely to attend. Their attendance was blocked by Communist-imposed travel restrictions. About 5000 foreign guests are expected, including 750 to 1000 from the U. S.

Milk Dealers' Appeal Prompts State Action

SMITHPORT, Pa., July 24.—The State Milk Control commission took under advisement today an appeal by seven McKean county milk dealers to discontinue a five cent deposit on glass milk bottles. The seven dealers, all from McKean or the nearby area, testified that the deposit on bottles creates a hardship in trying to compete with milk sold in paper cartons for which no deposit is required. A similar request by dealers in Elk and Warren counties was approved by the commission last June 9. The commission said a hearing will be held by the full commission board before a decision is made on the McKean county request.

A black and white illustration of a woman with a determined expression, shouting into a megaphone. She is wearing a dark, long-sleeved top and a light-colored skirt with a large bow at the waist. The megaphone is held to her mouth, and several lines radiate from it, indicating sound or breath. The megaphone itself has a small label that reads 'W. L. GAY'. The background is plain white.

Four officers of a small town bank played cards during working hours and were subsequently reported by a customer. A bank inspector paid an unexpected visit and, peering through a window, found them engaged in a game of poker. To give them a scare, he slipped into the bank, set off the robbery alarm, then waited to see what would happen. A few minutes later, the bartender from the saloon across the street came running over with four bottles of beer.

He said Cooke had agreed to make a visual survey only of the unpaved streets in the borough.

Gustav H. Schade, Jr., assistant borough manager, read a list of streets included in the Cooke survey. "What are you going to do about the old streets in town? We've got to do something about these streets if we expect to get anywhere with a bond issue."

Peter J. Lawler asserted, "Evans street, that's the worst street in town. Certainly, we should do something with a street like that."

PAUL MARSHALL, chairman of the highway committee, declared, "Wouldn't it be nice to include Beech street in the program?"

Wells joined the discussion. "It seems to me we ought to give some attention to those main cross streets, such as Beech and Evans and maybe Franklin street. Perhaps we should conduct traffic surveys on these streets."

Schade asserted, "A traffic survey wouldn't give a true indication. A lot more motorists would travel over any street which has been improved."

J. Wayne Knause, chairman of finance committee, demanded, "What about the list of one-way streets which we were supposed to have in here?"

Sears explained, "I don't know. The chief (James A. Laughhead) and the burgess (William A. Griffith) promised to deliver the list."

Knause snapped, "They're as lax on this as they are a lot of other things around here."

SCHADE ASKED where the money would be raised to pay the bond issue. Wells said when the previous issue was prepared this past Fall it was estimated a mill and one-half increase in real estate would pay for the issue.

John Frain asked, "If you decide to rebuild Evans street, do you figure on taking out the dips? I think any rebuilding job should include the removal of dips."

Wilbert O'Dell said, "I travel Evans street quite a bit, and I don't think it's too heavily traveled."

Schade asserted, "Some of Evans street has a high crown and if this was removed then there would be a lot of traffic."

Lawler declared, "Heaviest traffic on Evans is from High to South streets."

A. EMERY LOR broke into the discussion, "Frankly, I think the streets outlined take care of only the new developments."

O'Dell said, "I agree, and I think we've got to do more than that. We get our biggest fears on the heavily traveled streets in the older sections of town."

Schade reminded, "You won't get the votes of the old sections of the borough, unless something is done to the older streets."

Sears said, "The only thing we can do tonight is decide on the total amount of the bond issue."

Schade quickly added, "You're never going to get a bond issue unless you specify streets."

Wells asked, "Why can't we within the next several weeks get an estimate on old streets?"

If you want to get it ready for the November election that can be done. But maybe the issue wouldn't be too good on a general election. The borough can hold a special election for this if it pays the expenses. You would get a much more accurate indication of what the people want."

Knause quizzed Wells, "Do you think the people would come out on a special election?"

SCHADE ASSERTED quickly, "If you put it up like you were talking about tonight they'll come out and defeat the issue. I think you are duty bound to fix up some of the old streets."

Knause, reluctantly agreeing to a special election said, "I hate to see the money spent for a special election, but that might be the right way."

Wells explained the issue could be placed before the public by January and leave plenty of time for necessary engineering surveys which must be made before the borough can advertise for bids.

The borough solicitor summarized the issue, "I think we should delay any final action. Let's get the picture on these old streets in three or four weeks and then if you still want the issue on the November election we can do so."

Sears said he would ask Cooke to extend the survey to a number of the borough's older streets.

THE COMMITTEE voted to send a letter of thanks to the county engineer for visual survey conducted by his office.

Sears reported the borough's new sewer cleaning equipment has been delivered.

Knause said, "I observed this later that we were married. That is, we were married in the Japanese faith," he went on.

"The Army wouldn't give us permission so that was the only way we could be married," he continued.

"As soon as I met her I made her quit going to the dances at the camp," Sgt. Moore said. "We got a nice home in Tokyo and we were very happy."

"But then my enlistment for three years was up in March of 1950 and I couldn't take my wife and new born baby back to the States with me if I was discharged, so I re-enlisted for another three years," the Spring City sergeant said.

"We had a couple of happy months together and then they sent me to Korea a month after the war broke out," he said with a shrug. "And they kept me there for 15 months."

THE COUPLE were united again in November of 1951 and in December they were married by the Army.

Then in December of 1951, the sergeant almost reluctantly left Japan for the United States without his family with the promise that they would be sent back by the Army as soon as their turn came up.

Sgt. Moore waited in Fort Hood, Tex., and wrote letters to Japan asking when his family would be sent. He got answers which only promised, "As soon as their turn comes up."

Finally he received notice that she had left Japan on July 1 and that she would arrive on the West coast on the 18th.

He was granted an emergency leave and rushed there to meet his wife and daughter and the three of them started for Spring City by train.

"I NEVER saw anything like the trains in this country," Mariko said in precise English. "They don't have places to sleep on the trains in Japan."

"The seats face one another on each side of the train and you don't ride sideways as here in the United States," she added.

The young Japanese girl said that she liked it "in this country but the food is very rich. I like rice and you don't eat it here."

"They eat rice for breakfast, lunch and dinner over there," her husband said and Mariko giggled pleasantly showing two even rows of pearl-white teeth.

"I am lonely sometimes," she said. "I miss my grandmother. She will be 82," she added, as if to say that she never expected to see her again.

"BUT I heard that there are two other Japanese brides around here and maybe when my husband and daughter and I return to this place after he is discharged we can all be friends and talk about Japan," she said hopefully.

The young couple are visiting at the home of Moore's mother, Mrs. Hilda Moore. Next week they will leave for Fort Hood, Tex., where they will live until January when Moore will receive his discharge.

The family then will move to Spring City permanently.

Mariko said softly, "Someday I would like to return to my home for a visit, but I know it would cost a lot of money."

The petite bride went on to say, "But he became my husband when we drank the sake at our wedding and I will remain with him all my life."

Over 160 Expected At Adventist Camp

More than 160 enrollees are expected to attend the 1952 Summer Junior Training Camp for Eastern Pennsylvania. Seventh Day Adventist youngsters at the Pottstown Community camp near Earlville from Aug. 10 to 17.

Lynn R. Callender, youth leader of the local religious conference and director of the project, reported that final plans are now being made for the Summer camp with an adult staff of over 30 appointed to assist him in the camp direction. This includes unit counselors, cooks, boy and girl directors, instructors of craft classes and others.

A part of the church's world wide youth training program, the camp is one of 15 operated annually in the United States and Canada by the Adventists.

This will be the fifth straight year that Adventist youth have used the local camp site. The trained youngsters in attendance will direct the week-long program of activities which will include spiritual training, craft classes, nature studies, and an organized schedule of hikes, sports and games.

THE CAMPERS, including a large delegation from the Pottstown area, will be assigned to small groups which make up the organization of the camp government.

The groups will compete for honors in keeping their cabins clean and will alternate in arranging various features of camp life.

Devotional services will be held each morning, accompanied by a flag drill. Guest speakers will participate in this devotional phase.

LYNN R. CALLENDER

of camp life and in the counselling program.

"The church recognizes the importance of camp life in helping to combat juvenile delinquency," Callender explained in announcing the camp opening. "The camping experience proves to be the turning point in the lives of many boys and girls."

Other youth leaders expected to assist at the camp are Russell R. Adams, assistant director; Richard Fearing, recreational director; Mrs. E. R. Spangle, cashier and accountant; and Jane Steward, director of public relations.

Callender also reported that applications are now coming in from all parts of the conference and registration counts should soon be completed.

Mailmen's Group Okays Proxy Vote

In a motion made last night at the meeting of Pottstown Branch 564, National Association of Letter Carriers, the right to vote by proxy at the organization's national convention, was given to Arthur Warmkessel, state representative of the Pennsylvania Federation of Letter Carriers.

Warmkessel will act as a proxy delegate for the local group at the convention scheduled to be held in New York city on Sept. 1.

Because there were only seven members present at last night's meeting, the planned reading of newly adopted by laws was postponed until the next session on Aug. 28.

Following endorsement of the bylaws by the local membership, they have to be sent to the national headquarters for final review and approval.

Norco Grange Plans Numerous Outings

Plans for several social events were made by 30 members of the North Coventry Grange at the organization's meeting last night.

Final arrangements were made for a picnic scheduled Sunday at Ringneck park starting at 1 p. m. Members and their guests were asked to bring box lunches for the affair.

Also on last night's agenda were plans for a wiener roast Aug. 9 on the grange hall grounds.

Mrs. Nettie Hartmaier, spokesman for the group, announced that the organization will present a program of entertainment at the Sanatoga Grange on Aug. 6.

The session was concluded with members participating in various indoor games with prizes awarded to winners.

Strangled Youth, 12, Declared a Suicide

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy found strangled with a clothes line today in an alley near his home was declared a suicide.

Eight hours after the body of William J. Lightcap Jr. was discovered, Chief Coroner's Physician William S. Wadsworth told homicide detectives that an autopsy he performed on the body disclosed that the boy had strangled himself.

Until then, detectives held to the theory that the youth had been hanged elsewhere, cut down and placed in the alley, or had accidentally strangled himself playing a wild west game.

Dr. Wadsworth's report revealed that the boy had consumed a quantity of kerosene and fly repellent ointment, but added this was not the cause of death.

Large Moscow Newspaper Downs Small Town Editors

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—Pravda, Moscow's biggest newspaper, laughingly told Russian small town editors today their papers are pretty awful.

The Communist party organ said in an editorial broadcast by Moscow Radio that many Soviet local newspapers are "on a low cultural level . . . badly laid out" and "photographs and drawings are poor."

Pravda complained its country cousins fill their pages with official documents of local organizations — "hardly ever contain sketches, and poems."

Summer Classes in Full Swing at St. John's

—Mercury Staff Photos

The smiling children at the top are among the 112 pupils attending religious instruction classes at St. John's Catholic church of the Greek Rite, South Charlotte and Cherry streets. Ranging in age from 4 to 14, the children are divided into four groups and taught church history, catechism, liturgy and projects pertaining to liturgy. These daily summer sessions which run through the entire month of July are a mandatory part of the religious education to be received by Catholic children attending public elementary schools. Classes will formally close July 31 with a picnic on the church grounds sponsored by the Ladies Club. The bottom photo, shows a close up of one of the miniature altars made by the oldest group of pupils, ranging in age from 12 to 14. The model altars were part of a project pertaining to the study of the Catholic Mass service.

Super-MIG Reported By American Pilot After Wounding His Wife

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The Thomas J. Brennan, 60, a mail carrier, killed himself with a shot in action over Korea. America's top ace said today.

Col. Francis S. Gabreski, who returned recently from Korea, said United Nations pilots have encountered an improved version of Russia's standard jet fighter.

"It's not an entirely new design and the difference isn't apparent to the eye—but you can tell when you come across one," Gabreski said in an interview in Air Force magazine.

It has better performance, seems sturdier and more maneuverable, holds together better. And it has a better rate of climb than the original MIG. It probably has a more powerful engine.

Living Costs Reach Record Peak in June

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The Government reported today that the cost of living reached a record breaking peak in June.

Measured by the price of food, clothing, rent, entertainment and other basic living costs, the index rose 1.4 percent in June from 100.0 in May, the highest since 1947.

This was five tenths of a point above the January record of 100.0, the lowest since 1947.

It was six tenths of a point higher than the past month's 100.0, the lowest since 1947.

Between May 1947 and June 1956, the index rose more than 100 percent, from 70.0 to 170.0.

Commission Announces Proposed TV Changes

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The Communications Commission announced today proposed changes in assignments of very ultra-high frequency (VHF) television channels to meet required minimum mileage separations between stations.

The action made necessary an order holding up temporarily the grant made July 19 to the New Britain (Conn.) Broadcasting company for a new TV station on VHF channel 70.

The New Britain grant is one of the 19 new station permits issued since the lifting of the TV freeze. The stay the commission said will be effective until proposed VHF channel shifts are carried out.

Steel Strike is Settled

MANY a Pottsonian's prayer was answered late yesterday afternoon when the White House announced a settlement of the 32-day old steel strike.

The six major steel companies, which includes the Pottstown plant of the Bethlehem Steel company, and CIO President Philip Murray reached agreement on important basic issues. A speedy resumption of steel production was forecast, although it may take several days to work out details.

This is good news for Pottstown, and many a steel family will rejoice.

Hope on the Horizon

BRIGHTER prospects for the Jacobs Aircraft Engine company were seen by F. J. Sisto, general manager, after signing a new contract with the Steel Workers union, Local 3892, earlier this week.

"With the signing of the agreement," Mr. Sisto said, "and a pledge of more effort by the employees, the company will be in a position to further expand its facilities and production."

Optimism also was expressed by Mark L. Brown, president of the local, according to a statement issued by the company.

"It is my hope that the happy conclusion of this contract will result in stability of relations between the company and the union and continued full-time employment to the hundreds of men already in the employ of the company," Mr. Brown said.

Prospects of plant expansion, with steady and more employment is music to Pottstown's ears. Loss of several plants has hurt this community. Possibly the slack may be taken up by other companies, like Jacobs, expanding their production facilities.

Money Well Spent

POTTSTOWN'S playgrounds are experiencing a banner season. Greater attendance, more diversified activity are marking the playspots through the borough.

The program is attracting more than children. It's getting the praises of parents who commend the leaders for doing such a fine job for their children.

It's the first Summer for Robert Reis, new playground superintendent, and it's a banner one for him. He had a tough man to follow in the job, because Francis Donnon, his predecessor, put Pottstown on the map so far as playground activities was concerned. So respected and so expert was Mr. Donnon that he was elected president of the Pennsylvania Playground association.

Mr. Reis, therefore, had quite a high standard to continue. But he has met the challenge well, mainly because experienced leaders like Mrs. Florence Manthorne have kept the flag flying high.

Pottstown has had a good Summer on the playgrounds so far. The success must warm the hearts of the few pioneers who less than ten years ago convinced municipal and school authorities that we should have a supervised play program.

Endorsement was slow in coming, but the effect of the playground work already is telling. Juvenile delinquency is down. Happy children are the product! Pottstown is getting much for the little in public funds it is putting into the program.

Painless Extraction

IT didn't hurt much, after all, this reluctance to cut Pottstown weeds.

It didn't hurt municipal authorities, who had to be prodded into action. It didn't hurt the weed-infested lot owners, even though they had to be threatened with suits.

But it did help many a person who's a hayfever sufferer. The full effect of the weed-cutting may come later in the absence of goldenrod pollen. Then those poor persons who suffer from the allergy may have a little peace and relief.

Some Pottsonian persons actually are bothered by acute cases of hayfever. Some have been known to leave town because they couldn't take the pollen-polluted air.

We hope this Summer they won't suffer so much. At least, they will be grateful to the civic-minded persons who had consideration for their neighbors by cutting the weeds.

Steps Suggested to Ward off Burglaries

Burglaries Can Be Prevented

To the Editor: I've noticed many burglaries in and around Pottstown take place at homes where families have gone away on vacation.

I guess there's no way to stop this completely, but if these people would take a few common-sense precautions, some of these burglaries might be prevented.

For example, they could ask a neighbor or another member of the family to look at the place, not at the same time every day, but at varying hours. Also, they should let the police know they're on vacation, so the cop on patrol, if he's at all conscientious, can check the house.

A few precautions like these would make any burglar watching an empty house think a couple of times before he tried anything.

WASHINGTON Political Turnover Great During Past 20 Years

By RAY TUCKER

CHICAGO, July 24.—"There were giants in those days."

If that nostalgic comment has been expressed once during the long political deliberations here, it has been voiced at least a thousand times by veteran politicians and newspaper observers.

It refers to the relative stature of the 1932 president-makers, as contrasted with the key figures who nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover in this same midwestern capital 20 years ago.

Regardless of the November outcome, the two conventions' decisions here mark the end of a political generation in American history, with respect to fundamental policies as well as personalities.

There is room for disagreement as to whether the "giants" have vanished from the national scene. It is natural to think that the old days and faces are best, although scientific evidence does not support that theory.

But there is no dissent from the fact that the great, presidential drama of 1932 will be played and stage-managed by entirely different casts of characters on both sides. Rarely has there been such a rapid and complete turnover of the nation's political help and hierarchy.

GRIM: Every top man in the Roosevelt-Farley blitzkrieg of 1932, which was set in motion in these same, stuffy, smoke-filled hotel rooms, is dead, physically or politically, with the exception of former National Chairman and Postmaster General James A. Farley, who favored Barkley, and Speaker Sam Rayburn.

In fact, the Democrats' 1932 difficulties, including the convention strife, are that they have nobody with the New Yorker's strategic and organizing ability. And, of course, nobody with his winning smile and personality.

The Dems are grim guys these days, despite their 20 years of political power and prosperity. No candidate has come up with such a stirring tune as the Roosevelt-Farley song that "Happy days are here again."

Franklin D. Roosevelt is sleeping beneath the roses at Hyde Park. William R. Hearst and William G. McAdoo, who engineered the deal that nominated Roosevelt over the opposition of the Smith-Hague-Raskob forces, are gone. So are such pro-Roosevelt operators as "Kingfish" Huey Long, ex-Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi and ex-Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago.

Besides Farley, the only important survivors of that day are peccan-raising "Jack" Garner, Speaker Rayburn, the discredited Frank Hague of New Jersey and "Ed" Flynn, the Bronx boss. And Flynn, who foisted the malodorous O'Dwyer on Truman as Ambassador to Mexico, is absent because of illness.

UNKNOWN: Truman was then an unknown Missouri county judge. Vice President Barkley was a mere first-term Senator, although important and oratorically flamboyant enough to be chosen as the 1932 convention keynoter.

None of the leading candidates—Russell, Kefauver, Harriman, Kerr, Stevenson, Sparkman—had ever held an important national post. None of their political managers had emerged from local obscurity. None dreamed that they would be smiling and putting on makeup while pleading for delegate support on television within 20 years. Television itself was only a dream.

The shift in the Republicans' cast of characters is even more dramatic. Although it oversimplifies to say that General Eisenhower's nomination signifies the destruction of the Old Guard, the GOP has had its face lifted. Such operations, of course, are not guaranteed to be permanently effective, as so many women delegates know.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING

For MISS DORIS LANDIS, Gilbertville Rd. 1, BECAUSE she became engaged to Mr. Wilmer Ewing Jr., 11 West Fourth street.

"Silly Businesses" people would find less to complain about.

This town seems to be in the dark ages. Everytime they try to do something to bring it up-to-date. Someone has to speak up against it.

Take a peek in a town about 60 miles from here—Pottsville. They had a lot of silly business up there.

They had a third Thanksgiving, they had an air tower that was a tremendous help; and all they had to guard were a few coal mines and a lot of people who are the world's best.

They have pretty good streets and they also house and feed dogs and cats.

Oh yes, they have teenagers too. Kids who are growing up to be pretty good citizens. Once in a while they sit out on a front steps at night and talk and laugh—they have a good time—and never do those who once grew up themselves forget they were kids!

Yes sir—yes you just look up there and see what that town has to offer.

Not a lot of highbrows who can't find a thing to do but shun everything that goes on in the town or that tries to go on. They all go along and try to make something of it and they've made a pretty fine city in which to live.

Compare their taxes and see what comes of all the gripe about Pottstown doing this, that and another just to raise taxes.

The only thing the people in this town go along with is paying taxes and only because they have to!

You know something? Those air towers are cool in the Summer! But that job is a year 'round job and that's one place you don't look for warmth in the Winter.

Liked Music Camp

To the Editor: May I take this means to publicly congratulate William F. Lamb Jr. on his music camp held recently. I am sure boys and girls who did not avail themselves of this opportunity missed some good instructions.

Those who attended Sunday's finale were greatly thrilled. I am sure all were well pleased by the artists who were there to render their services to the youngsters.

Again congratulations for a wonderful venture.

Gossip In Gotham

THE DUCHESS of Kent's big new thrill is a Hollywood actor famous for being thrilling. . . . All that talk about offering Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. the Veep spot at the Democratic Convention is just loose chatter.

What he wants is to be Governor of New York State. And important behind-the-scenes meetings, on the White House and State levels, have endorsed him. . . . British dreamboat Richard Green is frightfully smitten over Rita Hayworth. Sends her flowers twice a day.

Mary Pickford is considering fabulous offers for her old films—from TV, of course. . . . Jose Ferrer calls stripper Sherry Britton on the transatlantic phone from Paris almost every night. (And if you can wrestle with those French operators, that's love!) . . . Marilyn Monroe is pressuring her studio for a salary boost. Hollywood's most publicized girl gets only $750 a week.

YVONNE DE CARLO is doing all right in the bauble department. She's carrying a diamond-studded gold cigarette case from Ali Khan, and wearing a gold and diamond bracelet charm from Howard Hughes. (It's the cutest thing, girls: a gold kangaroo carrying a diamond baby kangaroo in its pouch.) . . . Joe Barnes, a controversial figure with a long pro-Left background, has been chosen to edit the 2,000,000 word diary of Harold L. Ickes, due on the bookshelves as a Simon & Schuster publication this Fall.

Millionaire Horace Dodge almost tangled with Mickey Knox, a Hollywood lad, when Mickey grew too attentive to Gregg Sherwood at the Georges V bar in Paris. Dodge's jealousy of Gregg has most of the wolves scared to death.

KAY THOMPSON and the Williams Brothers have kissed and made up. They'll open the Fall season at the Persian Room Sept. 18. . . . One of the world's most famous athletes is heart-sick. His son is about to be discharged from the Army as an incurable alcoholic. . . . Denise Darcel has shed 10 pounds of curves. Looks great. . . . Herman Hickman is limping around the bistros with a cane. Sprained his leg.

Show folk who ran into Danny Kaye in Europe this Summer say he's Awfully Grand. You'd never guess the kid ever munched bagels in the Borscht Belt. . . . Newest booming fad is air conditioning units for cars. (It ain't cheap—big oh, how heavenly!) . . . Immediately after the current Dem Convention, Frank McKinney will resign his post as national chairman. Chicago's Jake Arvey probably will be his successor.

YOU'D NEVER guess Gloria Swanson's newest problem—staving off the amorous attentions of one of her daughters' former suitors. A lad half her age. . . . Look for a startling announcement out of Washington next Winter, after the Air Force finishes its top secret investigations of flying saucers. (Me. I'll be satisfied when they just announce it's Winter!)

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

TOMMY H., 4, is an only child, living in a city apartment.

"Dr. Crane, I never saw a child so full of energy," his weary mother protested.

"Tommy is on the go from morning till night. And he gets into the most mischief."

"He nearly drives me distracted. I'm so worn out by lunch time, that I welcome a chance to lie down with him when he takes his nap."

"But then he may not fall asleep at all, though I may doze off within a couple of minutes."

"As soon as he sees that I am asleep, he slips out and ransacks the house. And I have a second serious worry beside his excessive nervousness. For he indulges in self sex stimulation."

The young of various species of animal are usually bubbling over with excess energy.

That is particularly true of healthy children who are cooped up in city apartments.

For their mothers may try to keep them occupied in seat work games. They want the child to string wooden beads or build towers with blocks, and color with crayons.

Obviously, such games don't let the child run and romp. His legs may not be involved at all.

Seat work games involve his arms and hands, which weigh only a few pounds.

But when his legs function, they usually carry his entire weight and thus help him drain off a much greater quantity of his surplus energy.

IF IT IS at all possible, let a child get out doors where he can run and romp. Such exercise will calm him down much quicker than indoor games where he sits still. That's why we have recess periods at school.

If your child has no brothers or sisters but is of toddling age, then get it a puppy or kitten to serve as a playmate.

The pet will extort the child's attention, and encourage more running and romping.

Besides, the animal gets hungry and thirsty. It needs a bed. And it gets hurt. These situations can thus be employed for teaching your child many valuable lessons in selfishness.

You wouldn't be so likely to give him such instructions if his playthings were all inanimate objects like wooden blocks or a football.

When he kicks the latter, you think nothing of it. But when he kicks the puppy, you have a chance to use his action as the theme for a lesson in kindness to weak or defenseless living things.

Tommy's sex sex-practices are normal. In fact, the usual toilet seats encourage these actions. For the youngster is imprisoned in the bathroom.

1. What is a moiety?
2. Who composed the song, "Night and Day?"

FOLKS OF FAME—GUESS THE NAME

1. She was born in Minneapolis, Minn., and studied at the University of Minnesota and a school of music. She had played on the Chautauqua circuit in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and then appeared on Broadway. On radio she has stood for Walter O'Keefe. Bob Hope, "Stoopnagle and Budd," the late Fanny Brice and Robert Benchley. She got her first microphone experience when she substituted for a sick friend. Now she plays Pamela in the "Mr. and Mrs. North" show. Who is she?

2. This British composer was born Aug. 22, 1847 in Scotland. He was a violinist in an orchestra in Germany where he made the acquaintance of Franz Liszt. He then moved to Florence, Italy, and composed the cantatas, "The Bride, Jason" and his first opera, "Colomba." "The Troubadour," "His Majesty" (an excellent comic opera), produced in 1891, were other pieces and next he conducted the London Philharmonic concerts and was knighted in 1894. He composed music for Sir James Barrie's "The Little Minister," and others of his compositions are "The Rose of Sharon" and "Tam O'Shanter." He died in 1935. What was his name? ## ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Jacobs Buys Bar . . .

Wolf Makes Cooler . . .

★ PURCHASE—Charley Jacobs, one of the most famous of Pottstown hotel owners, is moving "across the tracks" soon. Jacobs, who operated the railroad house south of the Reading company tracks at South Hanover and Queen streets for 31 years, has purchased a high street stand. Yesterday he completed negotiations through Howard Wolfe, of the Robert DeLong Realty company, for the purchase of the Ecker building at 107 High street. It's a three-story brick building that was occupied from 1912 by Robert P. Ecker and his plumbing business until his death in 1947. Mrs. Ruth H. Ecker, Pottstown Landing, operated the business for two years after her husband's death. Since 1949, the place has been occupied by several bars. . . .

JACOBS was four times a Pottstown Democratic councilman from the Third ward. He came to Pottstown from Reading, ran the Railroad house for 31 years, and raised a family of 14 children. 11 of whom are still living. He will be 68 years old Christmas day. His hostility was owned by the Reading company, but recently was sold to the Seven Brothers (Feroe) corporation. At the time of the sale, the corporation said it planned to erect a farm implement and auto accessory store on the site for Sears, Roebuck and company. It was planned to raze the 100-year-old Railroad house, the corporation said. . . .

★ REASON—Vending machines at the Doehler plant sell hot tea for 5 cents and iced tea for 8 cents. Maybe the hot weather has something to do with the different prices. . . . The Schuykill Valley Oil company's moving to its new offices at Berks and Walnut streets tomorrow, and Ben Longaker will be transacting business there Monday. The Pottstown Paper and Supply company bought the Schuykill Valley building at 135 Walnut street and will move there. . . . Ronald L. Stout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stout, 451 Lincoln avenue, has completed four weeks of air force indoctrination training at Sampson, N.Y. . . .

★ WONDER—Harold Wolf, proprietor of Wolf's China shop, 155 High street, is getting many words of praise for an air-conditioning system he designed and installed himself in his store. He uses ice and fans that keep his store at a comfortable temperature without running up a high water bill or occasioning hookups with the sewer system. . . . The most ingenious person to emerge from World War II was the chap who crossed a homing pigeon with a woodpecker and produced a bird that not only delivered the message but knocked on the door. . . .

★ VACATIONER—Miss Mary A. Mertz, former Pottstown school teacher and presently parish secretary for Emmanuel Lutheran church, is taking her first vacation in five years. . . . The Rev. Luther A. Krouse, pastor of Emmanuel, admits that it looked kind of bad for his 21-year record of fair picnic weather. Thickening clouds darkened the skies over Sunnyside Wednesday afternoon, but not a drop of rain fell. The Rev. Krouse has a perfect record of never having had a picnic postponed in his 21 years here. . . . Americans buy 45 million dolls a year. The doll experts claim a child reveals definite personality traits by the way she treats and cares for her toy. . . . GIVE AWAY DEFT—Mrs. Robert Hayes, Route 29, Perkiomenville, has a mother cat and three kittens to give away. . . .

Now It's a Bungalow Without Any First Floor

Maybe a house divided against itself cannot stand, but this one in Rockford, Ill., with its first story nearly washed away by a Rock river flash flood, can. Only a bit of brickwork in middle is holding it up. The rest is hanging in mid-air. It's home of Mrs. Ollie McNyder. Nearly a million dollars damage and two killed is the flood's toll.

Wage Dispute Settled; Pullman Strike Cancelled

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—A threatened strike against the Pullman company, which had been called for July 29 and would have affected the country's major railroads, was cancelled today.

The Pullman company and the Order of Railway Conductors, who had called the strike, announced a settlement of the wage dispute and cancellation of the walkout. The joint announcement said the conductors had been granted a 12½ cent hourly basic wage increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1951, plus "the standard railroad cost of living escalator clause and a wage and rules moratorium to Oct. 1, 1953."

STUDIES PROPOSED

PITTSBURGH, July 24 (AP)—Westinghouse Electric corporation proposed today that new time studies be made on all disputed jobs in an effort to end a 101-day strike at its Nuttall Gear Works.

Man Killed by Machine As He Crosses Highway

ALTOONA, July 24 (AP)—An auto killed James M. Payne, 32, of Barre, Huntingdon county, today on the William Penn highway near here.

Blair county Coroner D. Harold Troxell said Payne stopped his light truck, started across the highway and stepped into the path of a car driven by A. W. Hardesty, 45, of Pittsburgh.

One advantage of having served in the armed forces is that you always have friends you can look up in almost any part of the country.

And so it was that Simon Simpleton remembered he had an old foxhole buddy living in California whom he wanted to especially see because the latter also was in the tavern business.

"Ferdinand had written me once and told me he was quite a snazzy joint there in San Jalojo," Simon informed his wife.

The dusty little California town wasn't exactly the metropolis Ferdinand had described it to be

Music's Influence On Human Relations Is Fellowship Topic

"Building Bridges of Understanding Through Music" will be the theme of weekend activities at Fellowship House Farm, Flagstaff, Ariz., the 123-acre training center in human relations.

Mrs. Elaine Brown, Temple university choral conductor will lead the singing at the fireside session at 8 o'clock tonight, and the demonstration discussion at 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

Representatives of the Fellowship House choir, and conductors and members of the 19 other "Singing City" choirs will meet for seminars and demonstrations during the day.

Plans will be made for the 1953 Singing City Concert Drama, which is expected to be recorded in a film to be shown to other cities as a dramatic step forward for the American way.

FEARS AND misunderstandings, prejudices and tensions which divide us often vanish when we lose ourselves in song," says Mrs. Brown. "Musicians and song writers know that music can be a potent force for democracy. There is a whole body of songs waiting to take their place on the lips and in the hearts of Americans."

Mrs. Brown is a graduate of the Bush Conservatory, Chicago, the Westminster choir school, and has directed the choir of the Juilliard School of Music, New York city.

Though well in captivity, this 15 pound carp looks as if it's ready to throw little Robert Richards, of 47 High street. The 9 year old fisherman, though the youngest in a party of six, demonstrated his angling skill when he landed the 31-inch monster of the deep during a recent fishing trip to Dover, Del.

Gov. Stevenson Is 'Deeply Affected' by Fact Of Nomination But Remains Publicly Silent

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson said tonight he was "deeply affected" by the fact that his name had been placed before the Democratic National convention as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

He still remained publicly silent as to whether he would accept the nomination, but there was virtually no doubt that he would.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, who offered the Illinois governor's name at the convention, described Stevenson as "the man we cannot permit to say no." A co-nominating speech was made by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware.

Stevenson, at the home of an aide some eight miles away, watched on television and then sent this statement through an aide to reporters:

"I had hoped they would not nominate me, but I am deeply affected by this expression of confidence and goodwill."

THERE WAS no immediate comment from the Governor when word came that President Truman's convention vote would be cast for him by the President's alternate, Thomas J. Gavin.

Stevenson remained during the day at the home of an administrative aide, William McCormick Blair.

Isidore Brown, a master in chancery in Chicago's circuit court, went in to see the Governor to night. When he came out he told newsmen Stevenson was calm and he added:

"He feels that if the call comes from the nation, he can't refuse it."

The Governor's press secretary, William Flanagan, told newsmen that if the Governor "has anything to say after the balloting tonight," he will say it at a home next door to the one where he is staying.

THE SPOT picked for the Governor to speak his piece—if he speaks it—is a pillared porch at the residence of Mrs. Louise De Koven Bowen, Blair's grandmother.

Stevenson's aides said the Governor watched the nominating speeches on television in the Blair residence.

With him were Flanagan, Carl McGowan, an administrative assistant, Blair, Mrs. Carol Evans, secretary on the Governor's staff, Police Captain Emmett Van Diver, who has been acting as the Governor's chauffeur and James Daly, a Chicago policeman, assigned to Stevenson.

Stevenson's two younger sons, Borden and John Feld, took part

During the afternoon newsmen sent two typewritten questions into Blair's house to be delivered to the Governor. To the first one, a variation of the question whether he would accept the nomination if it comes his way, the reply was "no comment."

The other question was whether he had been in communication with President Truman or his representatives Wednesday or today. "No," the reply read. "Who is his representative? I don't know. No one has told me he was the President's representative."

Actually, it was known that Stevenson had a long conference yesterday with Oscar Chapman, secretary of the interior. Chapman is generally regarded as one of Truman's most trusted political associates.

One block of Astor street was blocked off in mid-afternoon as a crowd began to gather in the throng were newsmen, photographers and ordinary spectators. It resembled a blend of the scenes of an accident and a picnic as policemen moved about and men and women stood under the trees or sat on the grass.

Stevenson glanced out the window at the crowd and they said, asked the member of his staff "What are they all doing here?"

Independence in Puerto Rico

Float commemorating U. S. approval of the new constitution of Puerto Rico is feature of San Juan parade celebrating Independence Day.

Turnpike Facilities Will Be Expanded

HARRISBURG, July 24 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike commission today moved to end waiting lines at restaurants and service stations on the original 160 mile section of the superhighway.

A new restaurant service station will be built on the north side of the turnpike at Midway, across the road from a large restaurant erected when the turnpike was opened 12 years ago.

In addition, more gasoline pumps will be installed at service stations and fuel storage tanks will be enlarged. Rest room facilities also will be enlarged.

The expansion program originally planned during World War II was held to because of materials shortages the commission said.

"THIS PROGRAM of expansion now underway of necessity but unfortunately at a time when travel is the heaviest will improve conditions appreciatively before next Spring," the agency said.

The commission pointed out that the present service facilities were constructed on the "old" turnpike 12 years ago traffic averaged about 6700 cars daily.

Today the average has reached 50,000 a day.

Infantile Paralysis Cases Are Reported for Nation

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—There were 1392 new cases of infantile paralysis reported over the nation the past week. This compared with 1047 in the preceding week and 794 in the comparable 1951 week.

Announcing this today, the Public Health service said the total for the "disease year" which began with the week ended April 5 has reached 5406 cases compared with 3313 in the similar period of 1949 and 3331 in the period the past year.

The record for poliomyelitis cases was set in 1949. The Health service noted decreases for the past week in Texas from 296 cases the week before to 243, and in Florida from 33 to 22.

4000 Persons Likely to Attend Doehler Picnic

Four thousand persons are expected to attend the annual family picnic of the Doehler Die Casting Employees' Mutual Benefit Association at Hershey park tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Children will compete in such events as a peanut scramble, balloon blowing contest, ball throwing contest, marshmallow race, shoe scramble, walking race and balloon stumping contest.

Ladies will engage in a rolling pin throw and men in a tug-of-war and an afternoon softball game.

The Breiner's Novelers will provide entertainment in the band shell from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. Buses will leave for the picnic from the Doehler parking lot on Washington street at 8:30 a. m. and return to Pottstown at 6 p. m.

C. Roy Bush is chairman of the picnic committee. Assisting him are Merle Rambo, W. Carroll Hadley, Grace B. Reinert and George Heflybower.

COOL AIR —

dry air into the Pottstown area.

The cold front swept away much of the humidity, which, combined with the high temperatures, caused all the stickiness.

YESTERDAY'S HIGH was only 2 degrees above normal, while during the heat wave temperatures were ranging up to 9 degrees above normal. The humidity was 46 percent at 4 p. m., 10 percent lower than Wednesday.

The weatherman said the cool weather would be around for at least several days.

The recently ended heat-wave fell short of the record set during a 12-day period in July, 1911. From July 1 to 12 of that year, the mercury hit 102 and 100 on two days, 99 on four days, and stayed in the 90's except for two days, when it was 83 and 87.

The temperature never went above 95 during the past heat wave, and dropped to 89 and 83 on two days.

The average mean temperature so far this month is 79.2, 4 degrees above normal.

The hottest July in weather bureau history occurred in 1949, when the average temperature was 79.2 degrees. If several more hot days occur in the next week, this record may be broken.

The forecast for today is sunny and pleasant with a high from 80 to 85 degrees. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy and warmer, with the possibility of scattered afternoon thundershowers.

ROME, July 24 (AP)—Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, U. S. assistant secretary of defense, arrived by plane tonight. She will visit the Naples headquarters of Adm. Robert B. Carney, allied commander for Southern Europe.

Steel Strike Ends

extended to Jan. 1, when the previous contract expired.

Generally, however, the workers appeared satisfied with the agreement.

Evan (Buck) Jones, president of a 5000 member local of the Steel-Steel Workers of America have workers union at the Jones and Laughlin plant in Pittsburgh said: "We are following Phil Murray to the end. We are sure he has gotten us as much as he could and we will back his decision."

Informants said the section on the sticky union shop issue, the big stumbling block in past efforts to settle the strike, exemplifies all present employees who are not members of the union from being compelled to take out a union card.

In addition, it provides all new employees with an "escape" period during the last 15 days of the first month they work. Upon taking a job, an employee must sign an application for union membership. If he fails to notify the company within the 15th to 30th day of employment that he wishes to quit the union, he must stay in.

It further provides a 15-day withdrawal period for all present union members at the end of each contract period.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S announcement of the agreement came at 5 p. m. (Pottstown time), seven hours after the chief executive had called the two top leaders in the dispute to the White House and virtually read them the riot act.

Bluntly, Truman informed Murray and Fairless that they must settle their differences for the security of the nation.

In surprisingly short order, they did just that.

Quickly following the White House announcement, a spokesman for Defense Mobilization John R. Steelman announced that the Government will grant the steel companies a price boost that averages out at $5.84 a ton for their product.

The companies had contended they must raise their prices—despite restrictions of the price controls law—to cover wage increases and other higher operating expenses. Some industry leaders had suggested as much as $12 a ton more.

Steelman said in a statement he had ordered the economic stabilization administration to grant the price hikes "because of the dire need for steel products for defense and for our civilian industry."

PRICE STABILIZER Ellis Arnall had held out for a price raise limit of $2.84, the amount allowed under the Caphart amendment to the economic controls act. That amendment provides for higher ceilings to reflect cost increases up to last July 28.

Aides said tonight that Arnall was out of town and not immediately reachable. They would not forecast his reaction.

Truman's announcement was quickly relayed to the Democratic National convention in Chicago, where Chairman Sam Rayburn

Rotary Member's Son Introduced to Club

John Nunemaker, son of Paul Nunemaker, a member of the club was introduced last night as the Rotary club's "student Rotarian" for the next two weeks by President Walter F. Heise.

The younger Nunemaker's presence at the meeting was part of the club's plan to introduce young men to Rotary life by having them participate, one every two weeks, in the club's activities.

Two other young men of the borough also attended the meeting. Ronald Rohland, son of Charles L. Rohland, vice president of the club, played a "Carnival of Venice" in Pottstown Junior High school band. He was accompanied by Willis Bridgman, another junior high student, at the piano.

Joseph L. Prince continued the club's series of brief sketches on Rotary life with a five-minute address on "Attendance." He emphasized that "regular attendance by each member can help produce the results and accomplish the purposes for which Rotary exists."

Guests of the club included Dr. Linwood G. Grace, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Dental Health; Dr. C. T. Genovese, of White Plains, N. Y.; Fred S. Nagle, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Daniel Bause Jr., of Boyertown, and Harold Davenport and Eugene B. Swinehart, both of Pottstown.

TOURING FAMILY —

His wife, wanting to see for herself, opened the door of the car and started to step out when her hat was caught in a strong gust of wind and blew out of sight into the blue sky.

At Pike's peak they were told not to attempt driving their car to the natural wonder. So they made the trip in a chartered car.

In Carlsbad, N. M., they saw the famous flight of the bats. About a million bats fly from the caverns every night to search for food after their long day's rest.

THE POTTSTONIANS agreed that they had "never seen anything like it."

The tourists went on to El Paso, Tex., and across the Rio Grande into Juarez, Mexico, where they bought souvenirs.

In Tucson, Ariz., the family visited Myron Himes and his wife, the former Iva Spacht, who was the organist at the Emmanuel Lutheran church until about a year ago.

Another Pottstown couple they visited there was Mr. and Mrs. Howard Daniels.

Up through the Cactus desert, the Salt river canyon and the petrified forest the explorers made their way to California.

MRS. YOCOM said, "We must have been inspected dozens of times in California to see whether we had any out-of-state fruit and other things." A quarantine on the fruits is in effect there.

They stopped at Los Angeles and took a guided tour of the home of the movie stars in Hollywood.

Going up to San Jose July 2, they had their first trouble with the car.

Smoke began to pour out of the hood and little Betsy Mae whispered to her mother, "I'm scared."

Yocom stopped the car.

With the assistance of a passing motorist found the trouble to be caused by a fault in the car's ignition system.

While the amateur mechanics worked on the ignition, the women of the party set off fireworks to amuse the children. But the mechanics couldn't fix the car.

The car was finally towed to Boulder, Colo., where the family spent the night. Mrs. Yocom said later, "I never met such friendly people as there. They couldn't do enough for us."

THEY WENT on to San Jose, San Francisco and then to Oakland where they visited Irvin Kurtz, son of Dr. I. D. Kurtz, the late pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran church.

On July 5, Yocom drove 697 miles. That day they went through Sequoia National park, Kings Canyon and all the way to Arizona to witness an Indian pow-wow.

They drove back up to Oregon and on July 9 when Pottstonians at home were sweltering in a record heat wave, they could not tour Crater lake there because of 36-foot snow drifts.

On to Lake Louise they had to traverse mountains through Yo-Ho-National park.

Mrs. Yocom reported, "We thought the Big Horn was had until we saw the roads there. They were not paved and some of the curves were washed out."

"We held our breath as we went down those roads and stayed as far away from the edge as possible," she added.

They continued on their way through North Dakota, Michigan, Wisconsin and back into Canada again.

THEY RE-ENTERED the United States through northern New York on July 19, stopping at Albany where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huber, daughter and son-in-law of Dr. Paul Z. Hoffman, of 513 High street.

It was there that the family got their first news of Pottstown. The Hubers are subscribers to The Mercury.

The Yocom's had forgotten a pile of issues of The Mercury that Kurtz had put aside for them in California.

The family had to buy a whole new set of tires on that leg of their journey because they had not been lined up properly before the trip.

The rest of the way home they were plagued with heavy rain—the only bad weather the vacationers experienced on their entire journey.

Home again on Sunday, Mrs. Yocom said, "We've been wanting to do something like this for years. The children were wonderful on the trip. They never got an upset stomach or a cold or anything."

YOCOM ADDED, "We made plans for this for years and all we were waiting for was until the children got old enough. Everything we saw was up to our expectations."

Mrs. Sotter, who kept the records of the gas used and assisted the Yocom in picking routes, was designated the "navigator" of the trip.

Mrs. Sotter, who kept the records of the gas used and assisted the Yocom in picking routes, was designated the "navigator" of the trip.

"I'd like to do it again," she remarked.
